The first of the great house of Seton established in North Britain was

George, Lord Seytoun, was one of the conservators of treaties with the English, 30 Sept. 1497, and 12 July, 1499, and witnessed the assignation of the dower of Margaret, Queen of Scotland, 24 May, 1503. His lordship adhered to the party of the queen dowager against the lords of the congregation, in 1559; and on Queen Mary's return from France, was sworn a privy councillor, and appointed master of the household to her majesty. After the murder of Lord Darnley, the queen and Bothwell went to Seton, where they passed some days, and there the contract of marriage between them was signed. Lord Seton was one of those who waited for the queen on the banks of Lochleven, in May, 1568, when she effected her escape, conducted her by his castle of Niddry to Hamilton, and joined the association in her behalf. After the battle of Langside, Lord Seton retired to Flanders, where he remained in exile two years, and drove a waggon with four horses for his livelihood. His picture in that employment was painted on the north end of the long gallery of Seton. Lord Seton was in Scotland in April, 1570, actively employed in the cause of Queen Mary; and in the same year he was sent to the Low Countries to solicit the Duke of Alva to assist the friends of her majesty in Scotland. The 2nd son,

George Perceval, Esq., Lord of Tykenham, &c., m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Edward Bamfylde, of Poltimore, in Devon; and dying about 1599, left, with a dau., Elizabeth, m. to Richard Gilbert, Esq., a son,

Richard Perceval. The life of this ultimately successful person was chequered and eventful in no ordinary degree. He was b. in 1550, and educated at St. Paul's School, then the most celebrated seminary in England, whence he was sent to Lincoln's-Inn, to acquire some general idea of the laws, esteemed, in those days, an accomplishment of the highest description. In both his progress was brilliant, but his conduct dissipated and disorderly, so much so indeed, that he incurred the displeasure of his father, who, upon his marriage with Joan, dau. of Henry Young, Esq. of Buckorn Weston, co. Dorset, entirely abandoned him, observing, that as he had ruined himself by his riots, he might recover himself by his wits. Thus unnaturally cast off, Mr. Perceval found means, by the credit of his reversionary estates, and the assistance of his friends, to maintain himself several years, during which time he had three sons and two daus.: but at length, through a failure of resources, and the increasing expenses of his family, he was obliged to quit the kingdom, and travelled into Spain, where he remained about four years. Being then informed of his wife's decease, he returned to England, hoping, now that the principal cause of his father's displeasure had been removed, he might again recover his good opinion; but that hope proving delusive, his relations, and particularly Roger Cave, Esq., of Stamford, who had married the Lord-Treasurer Burghley's sister, engaged on his side, and, by that gentleman's means, he contracted an acquaintance with Lord Burghley, who, being pleased with his talents, and moved by his misfortunes, and having endeavoured in vain to procure a reconciliation with his father, determined to promote his fortune by employing him in the management of those state affairs which required the greatest trust and secrecy. Thus he continued till the year 1586, when, whilst the court of Spain was meditating the armada, an English ship succeeded in taking from a Spanish vessel letters from the Low Countries, which, by intimations from abroad, were known to contain the secret. Those letters being brought to Lord Burghley, were laid by his lordship before Queen Elizabeth in council; but the contents being in cipher, the lord-treasurer proposed that the papers should be entrusted to this Richard Perceval, who returned them the next day after they were placed in his hand to her majesty in person, deciphered, translated, and fairly transcribed in Spanish, Latin, and English. This was the first certain intelligence of the Spanish design, and Perceval was admitted instantly into the queen's favour, and from that moment his road to honour and fortune was open and unimpeded. Having subsequently filled the office of secretary of the Court of Wards in England, for several years, he was nominated, in 1616, registrar of the Court of Wards in Ireland, where, after obtaining considerable landed property, he d. in 1620, and was s. by his son (by his 2nd wife, Alice, dau. of John Sherman, Esq. of Ottery St. Mary's, co. Lineage.

ROBERT DE BRUCE was a wealthy baron in Yorkshire in the reign of WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR, with whom he had come from Normandy. He was possessed of the castle and manor of Skelton, in Yorkshire, and Hert and Hertness, in the bishoprick of Durham, and before the end of the reign of the CONQUEROR, he was possessed of ninety-four lordships in Yorkshire. His son,

ROBERT DE BRUCE, made a figure at the court of King HENRY I., where he became intimate with Prince David of Scotland, that monarch's brother-in-law. When he became king of Scotland, as DAVID I., in 1124, Bruce obtained from him the lordship of Annandale and great possessions in the south of Scotland. Robert de Bruce d. in 1141, and was buried at Gysburn, the place of his birth. He m. Agnes, dau. of Fulk de Paynell, by whom he had issue,

ADAM DE BRUCE, of Skelton, in Yorkshire. He inherited his father's great English estates, and was ancestor to the family of Bruce of Skelton, which failed in the male line in 1271.
ROBERT.

ROBERT DE BRUCE became lord of Annandale, as his father's gift, and was founder of the great House of Bruce in Scotland. He flourished under DAVID I., MALCOLM IV., and WILLIAM THE LION. The name of his wife was Euphemia, by whom he had issue, ROBERT and WILLIAM.

ROBERT DE BRUCE, lord of Annandale, m. in 1183, Isabel, natural dau. of King WILLIAM THE LION, by whom having no issue, he was s. before 1191 by his brother,

WILLIAM DE BRUCE, lord of Annandale, and possessor of large estates in the north of England. He obtained from King JOHN the grant of a weekly market a Hertilpool, and he granted lands to the canons of Gysburn. He d. in 1215, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT DE BRUCE, lord of Annandale. He m. Isabel, 2nd dau. of David, Earl of Huntington, son of Henry, Prince of Scotland, and grandson of King DAVID I. It was in consequence of this royal alliance that their son entered into competition for the Scottish crown, and that their descendants became co-heirs of the ancient Scoto-Pictish and Anglo-Saxon kings. Isabel was co-heir of her brother, John the Scot, Earl of Chester; she d. in 1251, having survived her husband six years. He d. in 1245, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT DE BRUCE, lord of Annandale. He was an able and strenuous baron, and acted a great part in the reign of ALEXANDER III. In 1255, he was appointed one of the fifteen Regents of Scotland. In 1284, he was one of the Magnates Scotiæ who consented to accept Margaret of Norway as their sovereign on the demise of ALEXANDER III. In 1291, he entered into an unsuccessful competition with John Balliol for the crown of Scotland. He d. at Lochmaben Castle, in 1295, aged 85. In 1244, he m. Isabella, dau. of Gilbert de Clare, 3rd earl of Gloucester, by whom he had,

ROBERT, his heir.
BERNARD, of Conington and Exton. Sir Bernard Bruce was the ancestor of the only cadet branch of the House of Bruce which can boast of royal descent. He was seated at Exton, in the county of Rutland, and was father of SIR JOHN BRUCE, of Exton, whose only dau. and heir, JANE BRUCE, of Exton, was wife of Sir Nicholas Green. Her dau. and heir, JOAN GREEN, of Exton, was wife of Sir Thomas Culpeper, and her dau. and heir, CATHERINE CULPEPER, of Exton, was wife of Sir John Harington. Her descendant in the fourth degree, SIR JOHN HARINGTON, of Exton, heir-general of the only cadet branch of the royal Bruces, m. Lucy Sydney, dau. of Sir William Sydney, of Penshurst, by whom he had a son, JOHN HARINGTON, created Lord Harington, of Exton, by King JAMES I., whose line failed, and a dau., ELIZABETH HARINGTON, wife of Sir Edward Montague, of Boughton. Through her, the three families of the House of Montague, viz., the DUKES OF MONTAGUE and MANCHESTER and the EARL OF SANDWICH; SONDES, EARL OF FEVERSHAM, and his descendants, LORDS MONSON AND SONDES; and CHOLMELEY, BARONET OF EASTON; are all descended from the royal blood of Bruce. The competitor for the Scottish crown had also a dau., CHRISTIAN BRUCE, wife of Patrick Dunbar, 7th earl of March, ancestress to a long line of Earls of March.

Robert Bruce, the competitor, was s. by his eldest son,

ROBERT BRUCE, lord of Annandale and earl of Carrick, in right of his wife, Margaret, Countess of Carrick, to whom he was married in 1271. On the death of his countess, in 1292, he resigned the earldom of Carrick to his eldest son. In 1296, he, along with his eldest son, swore fealty to King EDWARD I He d. in 1304. By the Countess of Carrick he is said to have had issue twelve children

I. ROBERT, heir to his claims to the Scottish crown.
II. EDWARD, crowned king of Ireland in 1316, and killed at the battle of Dundalk, 1318. He had issue, ROBERT, ALEXANDER, and THOMAS, successively Earls of Carrick. His line failed.
III. Thomas, s. p. IV. Alexander, s. p.
V. Nigil, s. p.
I. ISABEL, wife, 1st, of Sir Thomas Randolph, high chamberlain of Scotland; 2nd, of the Earl of Athol; 3rd, of Alexander Bruce. By Randolph she had issue, THOMAS RANDOLPH, EARL OF MORAY, Regent of Scotland, whose dau. and eventual heir, AGNES RANDOLPH, m. her cousin, Patrick Dunbar, 9th earl of March. Her son, GEORGE, 10th earl of March, was father of the 11th earl, and of two daus., 1 ELIZABETH, betrothed in 1399 to the Duke of Rothsay; 2 JANET, wife, 1st, of Sir John Seton; and, 2ndly, of Sir Adam Johnstone. She was ancestress to the Earls of Winton, and the Johnstones, baronets of Westerhall.
II. MARY, wife, 1st, of Sir Neil Campbell, of Lochowe, by whom she was ancestress to the House of Argyle; 2nd, of Sir Alexander Frazer, high chamberlain of Scotland.
III. CHRISTIAN, wife, 1st, of Gratney, Earl of Mar; 2nd, of Sir Christopher Seton; 3rd, of Sir Andrew Moray, of Bothwell.
IV. MATILDA, wife of Hugh, Earl of Ross.

The three other daughters are said to have married into the families of Carlyle, Dishington, and Brechin.

ROBERT BRUCE, the eldest son, was the glorious restorer of the Scottish monarchy. He became Earl of Carrick on his father's resignation, in 1292. He asserted his claim to the Scottish crown, and ascended the throne of his ancestors, being crowned at Scone, in 1306. His power and the liberties of his country were finally vindicated by the splendid victory of Bannockburn, in 1314. He d. in June, 1329, in the 55th year of his age. King ROBERT I. m. 1st, Isabella, dau. of Donald, 10th Earl of Mar, by whom he had an only dau., PRINCESS MARJORY, his eldest co-heir, who, failing her brother, was heiress of the Scottish crown. She was wife of Walter, Lord High Steward of Scotland, by whom she had issue, ROBERT, who afterwards ascended the throne of Scotland as King ROBERT II., and who was ancestor of the long line of STUART kings; his heirs-general are the DUKE OF MODENA, the DUKE OF PARMA, and the KING OF NAPLES. King ROBERT I. m. 2ndly, Elizabeth de Burgo, dau. of Richard, 2nd Earl of Ulster, by whom he had issue a son, who s. him as King DAVID II.; and two daus.,

The Princess MARGARET, his junior co-heir. She was wife of William, 4th earl of Sutherland. Her descendant and representative is GEORGE, 2nd DUKE OF SUTHERLAND, who is junior co-heir general of King ROBERT BRUCE.
The Princess MATILDA, his junior co-heir, wife of Thomas de Izac, by whom she had a dau., JOANNA DE IZAC, the wife of John de Ergadia, lord of Lorn, by whom she had two daus., who transmitted to their descendants and representatives the junior coheirship of King ROBERT BRUCE. The eldest dau., ISABELLA DE ERGADIA, was wife of John Stewart, of Innermeath, who in her right became Lord of Lorn. She was ancestress to the STEWARTS, LORDS OF LORN, and the STEWARTS, EARLS OF ATHOL. The younger dau., JANET DE ERGADIA, was wife of Robert Stewart, brother of John Stewart, of Innermeath. She was ancestress of the STEWARTS OF ROSSYTHE, in the county of Fife, and of the STEWARTS OF CRAIGIE HALL, afterwards of NEW HALLS, in co. Linlithgow.

King ROBERT had also a dau., who is believed to have been illegitimate, who was wife of Sir Walter Oliphant, of Aberdalgy, the ancestor of the Lords Oliphant. King Robert was s. in 1329 by his only son, DAVID II., king of Scotland, who was crowned at Scone, in 1331. He had no issue by either of his wives—the Princess Joanna of England, dau. of EDWARD II., or Margaret de Logie, and he closed his inglorious reign in 1371, in the forty-seventh year of his age. With him and his cousin, Sir John Bruce, of Exton, ended the royal male line of Bruce, which continued to be represented as heirs-general by the STUART KINGS OF SCOTLAND, the EARLS OF SUTHERLAND, the STEWARTS OF LORN, the STEWARTS OF ROSSYTHE, and (of the junior branch) the HARINGTONS OF EXTON.

But the great House of Bruce continued to be perpetuated in the male line by a most distinguished family of baronial rank, which has been prolific of high and important branches. The family of Bruce of Clackmannan, from which all the principal houses of the name in Scotland are descended claims to be of the same stock with the ancient Lords of Annandale and of Skelton, and this claim was distinctly admitted by the head of the family, King DAVID II., in a charter to Sir Robert Bruce, the son of Thomas Bruce, of the castle and manor of Clackmannan, together with the lands of Wester Kennet, Gartlet, &c., &c., dated 9th Dec. 1359. In this charter, the king designates Sir Robert Bruce thus; "Dilecto et fideli consanguineo Suo Roberto de Bruis." Sir Robert Bruce, the first of Clackmannan, d. in 1390, leaving issue by his wife, Isabel, dau. of Sir Robert Stewart, of Rossythe.

I. ROBERT (Sir), his heir.
II. Edward (Sir), ancestor of the BRUCES of Airth, Stenhouse, and the Viscount de Bruce of Paris.
III. James Bruce, Bishop of Glasgow, and Lord High Chancellor of Scotland.

I. DAVID, his heir.
II. Thomas, ancestor of the BRUCES of Kennet, whose heiress, MARGARET, m. Archibald Bruce, of Green, and is represented by ROBERT BRUCE of Kennet, LORD BALFOUR of Burleigh.

Alexander, an officer in the army; who incurred the resentment of the House of Commons, for his conduct at the Westminster election in 1750; and refusing to solicit the forgiveness of the House, he was committed to Newgate, and closely confined during the whole session of 1751. At the prorogation of parliament, Mr. Murray was, of course, liberated; and proceeded, accompanied by Lord Carpenter and Sir George Vandeput, in his coach, and the sheriffs of London in a chariot, preceded by a great concourse of people, from Newgate to Lord Elibank's house in Henrietta-street, a standard being carried before him inscribed, "Murray and Liberty." Indignant at the attempt, General Murray immediately addressed the following letter to the duke;—

"Fort St. Philip, 16 Oct. 1781.

I can have no further communication with you but in arms. If you have any humanity, pray send clothing for your unfortunate prisoners in my possession; leave it at a distance, to be taken up for them, because I will admit of no contact for the future but such as is hostile to the most inveterate degree."

To this the Duke replied:—"Your letter restores each of us to our places; it confirms me in the high opinion I have always had of you. I accept your last proposal with pleasure."

His grace m. twice; 1st, Elizabeth, 3rd dau. and co-heiress of John, 2nd Duke of Marlborough, by whom (who d. 22 March, 1714) he had two sons, who died young, and one dau., Anne, who m. Wriothesley, 3rd Duke of Bedford, and subsequently, the Earl of Jersey. The Duke of Bridgewater m. 2ndly, 4 Aug. 1722, Rachel, sister to his son-in-law, the Duke of Bedford, by whom he had to survive childhood, two sons, JOHN and FRANCIS, and three daus., LOUISA, Caroline, and Diana. The eldest dau., Louisa, was m. to Granville Leveson, 1st Marquess of Stafford. His grace d. 11 Jan. 1745, and was s. by his son,

JOHN, 2nd duke, b. 29 April, 1727, at whose decease, unm. 8 Mar. 1748, the family honours devolved upon his brother,

FRANCIS, 3rd duke, b. 21 May, 1736. This nobleman justly acquired the reputation of being the great founder of inland navigation in this country, by his enterprising speculation in the celebrated canal which bears his name, and which has realized a princely revenue for his successors. The mighty and prosperous scheme originated thus: the duke's father, Scroope, the first duke, had obtained, in 1732, an act of parliament, authorizing him to dig a canal from Worsley, one of his estates, containing very valuable coal mines, to Manchester, but the difficulties in the way of executing it deterred him from the attempt. His son, Francis, by the death of his elder brother, John, the second duke, coming into possession of the family estates, resolved to complete the plan of his father, and succeeded, by the help of Brindley, a self-taught man of remarkable genius, to effect his object. He, the duke, to better carry out his plan, limited his personal expenses to £400 a-year, and devoted all the rest of his large income to the undertaking. The canal was completed in five years, after the expenditure of immense sums, and the duke was thus enabled to supply Manchester and the neighbouring towns with coal; he afterwards extended the canal to the Mersey, so as to bring Liverpool into the line of his navigation. The success of his undertaking was so vast that canals were now projected in every direction, and Brindley formed the grand idea of establishing a water communication between London, Bristol, Liverpool, and Hull. This canal was finished in 1777. The Duke of Bridgewater was too absorbed in his gigantic enterprise to take any active part in politics, but he was a friend to the Pitt administration, and largely contributed to the Loyalty Loan. The duke, when in London, was too occupied to even keep house, and he paid an annuity to a friend, Mr. Carvill, that his grace, whenever not otherwise engaged, and his intimate friends, might have their meals at Mr. Carvill's table. His grace d. unm. 8 March, 1803, when the dukedom and marquessate expired, but the earldom and minor titles reverted to his cousin,

GENERAL JOHN-WILLIAM EGERTON, 7th Earl, son of the Right Reverend John, Lord Bishop of Durham, grandson of Dr. Henry Egerton, Lord Bishop of Hereford, and grandnephew of the 1st duke. His lordship's mother was Anna-Sophia, dau. and co-heiress of Henry Grey, Duke of Kent, which dukedom expired with his grace, in 1750. This nobleman (Lord Bridgewater), a person of singular eccentricity, was b. 13 April, 1753, and entering into the army, rose to the rank of major-general, 25 Feb. 1795; and of lieutenant-general, 1 Jan. 1801. His lordship m. 14 Jan. 1783, Charlotte-Catherine-Anne, only dau. and heiress of Samuel Haynes, Esq.; but dying s. p. 21 Oct 1823, the family honours devolved upon his only brother, FRANCIS-HENRY, 8th earl, with whom the earldom expired. It was this 8th Earl who left £8,000 for the writing and publishing of the celebrated essays, known as the Bridgewater Treatises.

The last and celebrated Duke of Bridgewater, who amassed immense wealth, devised most of his houses and pictures (the latter valued at £150,000) to his nephew, George Granville, Marquess of Stafford, 1st Duke of Sutherland (see that title), with reversion to his grace's 2nd son,

LORD FRANCIS EGERTON, b. 1 Jan. 1800, lord-lieut. of Lancashire, who assumed, 1833, the surname and arms of Egerton, and was raised to the peerage as EARL OF ELLESMERE, &c. in 1846. He m. 18 June, 1822, Harriet-Catherine, eldest dau. of Charles Greville, Esq., by Charlotte, his wife, dau. of William-Henry, 3rd Duke of Portland, and by her (who d. 17 April, 1866), had issue

* FAMILY OF MONTIGNY.—The house of Montigny, one of the most ancient of Champagne, removed, towards the end of the 15th century, to the seigniory of Perreux, in Burgundy, and erected a castle there, called after the family name, which exists to the present day. Several tombs of the Montignys are to be seen in the church at Perreux. From the 13th century this family continually served in the armies of the kings of France, and was rendered distinguished in that period by the valour of a renowned knight, Galon de Montigny, who carried the banner at the battle of Bouvines, where he saved the life of King PHILIP-AUGUSTUS. Amongst its members were several ambassadors, a vice-admiral, lieutenant-generals, governors of town and forts, marshals of the field, knights of the Royal Order, gentlemen and pages of the chamber, commanders and knights of the Order of Malta, and of the Royal and Military Order of St. Louis, and knights of the Legion of Honour; one of the Montignys was captain of the guards to HENRY IV. The family constantly formed alliances with the best houses in France, such as Quinquet de Montifaut, du Lys, de Canillac, Courtenay, de Boulainvilliers, de Montlivaux, and du Bellay. From the marriage, 1744, of GUILLAUME-ANTOINE, Marquis de Montigny, Seigneur de Perreux, with Demoiselle ANGELIQUE-LOUISE DU BELLAY, of the ancient and illustrious family of that name, lineally descends BERTHE, dau. of the COUNT DE MONTIGNY, BOULAINVILLIERS, and wife of the RIGHT HON. ESMONDE.

ESMONDE, SIR THOMAS-HENRY-GRATTAN, Bart. of Ballynastra, co. Wexford, b. at Pau, 21 Sept. 1862, s. as 11th bart. on the decease of his father, 10 Dec. 1876.

Lineage.

This family is of very ancient establishment in the co. of Wexford, where we find John Esmond was consecrated Bishop of Ferns about the middle of the 14th century. The immediate founder of the present house,

JOHN ESMONDE, Esq. of Johnstown, co. Wexford, m. Isabel, dau. of Thomas Rosseter, Esq. of Rathmacknee Castle, and left a son,

LAURENCE ESMONDE, Esq. of Johnstown. This gentleman m. Eleanor, dau. of Walter Walsh, of The Mountains, by whom he had two sons, and was s. by the elder,

WILLIAM ESMONDE, Esq., who m. Margaret, dau. of Michael Furlong, Esq. of Horetown, and had, with seven daus., four sons, viz.,

ROBERT, living in 1618, who continued the line of Johnstown, which became EXTINCT in the male line in 1785, at the death of the Rev. LAURENCE ESMONDE, buried at Bannow.

LAURENCE, of whom presently. James. Patrick.

The 2nd son,

SIR LAURENCE ESMONDE, abandoning the religious creed of his ancestors, declared himself a partisan of ELIZABETH, and a convert to Protestantism. In 1601-2 he commanded a troop of 150 foot and horse in her Majesty's service, was knighted by Sir Henry Sydney the viceroy, and served in Connaught in the same corps d'armée, on the expeditions of the Irish chieftains, Morough-ni-doe O'Flaherty, Dynast of West Connaught, and Sir Theobald Bourke, 1st Viscount Mayo, who, to preserve their estates, had made their submission a short time previously to the lord-deputy, and accepted commands in the Queen's service. Sir Laurence Esmonde's zeal and activity in his military operations procured for him in an especial degree the favour of the court, and his ambition increasing with his fortune, he was raised to the peerage, in 1622 (being at the time major-general of all the king's forces in Ireland, and governor o Duncannon Fort), as LORD ESMONDE, Baron of Limerick, co. Wexford. During one of his campaigns in Connaught, having fallen in love with the beautiful sister of O'Flaherty, he married her, and had one son, THOMAS. It happened, however, that Lady Esmonde, a devout Roman Catholic, fearing that her child might be brought up a Protestant, formed the resolution of carrying off the infant by stealth, and returning to her family in Connaught. This act of maternal devotion appears to have been not at all disagreeable to Sir Laurence, as affording him a pretext for casting suspicion on the legality of his union, that of a Protestant with a Catholic: yet, without resorting to legal measures to annul the marriage in due form, he some time after m. Elizabeth, 2nd dau. of the Hon. Walter Butler, 4th son of James, 9th Earl of Ormonde, but by her had no issue. His lordship d. 26 March, 1646, bequeathing all his extensive estates to his only son,

I. SIR THOMAS ESMONDE, 1st baronet. The severity and singularity of his case created considerable interest; and there is scarce a doubt that, but for the melancholy state of civil war, usurpation, and destruction of property, at that period, and upon legal investigation into the matter and the accompanying circumstances, the conduct of Lord Esmonde towards his lady, and the legality of his lordship's second marriage (his first undivorced wife still living), Sir Thomas Esmonde's right of succession to his father's peerage could not fail to have been acknowledged. Before, however, that could have taken place, Sir Thomas died, and his successor had to occupy himself with entering into possession of his grandfather's property. Sir Thomas Esmonde, as already noticed, was reared and educated with his maternal relations; and upon his uncle being raised in the peerage to the dignity of Viscount Bourke of Mayo, by privy-seal, dated at Westminster, 8 Feb. 1626, and by patent, 21 June, 1627, Sir Thomas, who had already been knighted for his eminent services in the cause of royalty, as general of horse in the armies of CHARLES I. was created, through Lord Mayo's influence, a few months later (28 Jan. 1628), a BARONET OF IRELAND. Sir Thomas m. Ellis, widow

This learned person m. Isabel, dau. of Sir William Ryther, of Ryther, and was s. at Steeton Castle, co. York, which he had erected, by his eldest son,

SIR WILLIAM, one of the justices of the Common Pleas in the reign of HENRY VIII. His lordship m. Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Sir Robert Manners, Knt., ancestor of the Duke of Rutland, and was s. at his decease by his only son,

SIR THOMAS FAIRFAX, of Denton, who served the office of sheriff for the co. York in 1571. Crawford mentions that this gentleman was with the Duke of Bourbon at the sacking of Rome, and that his father, being highly offended therewith, settled Steeton on his youngest son, Gabriel. Sir Thomas m. Dorothy, dau. of George Gale, Esq. of Asham Grange, and had, besides two daus., THOMAS, his successor; Edward, of Newhall, a poet; Charles (Sir), col. in the army, killed at the siege of Ostend. FERDINANDO, 2nd baron. This nobleman, at the beginning of the civil war, was the parliamentary general for York, and became eminently distinguished. After defeating the Earl of Newcastle in 1642, Lord Byron, in 1643, and Col. Bellasis (whom he took prisoner) in April, 1644, at Selby, he had the chief command at the battle of Marston Moor, in the July of the same year, and there, routing the royal army under Prince Rupert, he took possession of the city of York as governor. His lordship m. 1st, Lady Mary Sheffield, dau. of Edmund, 1st Earl of Mulgrave; and 2ndly, Rhoda, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Chapman, Esq of London; by the former of whom he had three sons and six daus.,* and was s. at his decease, in 1647, by his eldest son and companion in arms,

THOMAS, 3rd baron; who had distinguished himself as a republican military leader, as SIR THOMAS FAIRFAX. He was a participator in the victory obtained by his father at Selby, and commanded the right wing of the parliamentarians at Marston Moor. In the 34th year of his age he was appointed general-in-chief of the parliament's armies, and soon after routed the King at Naseby, retook Leicester, beat Col. Goring, took Bridgewater, Dartmouth, Bristol, defeated Lord Hopton, forced the Prince of Wales to retire into France, and then, reducing the entire of the West, drove the King from Oxford, in May, 1646, in which year he was made governor of the Tower of London. After succeeding to the barony, he reduced Colchester; but he took no part in the subsequent proceedings of the independents, and was entirely free of any participation in the death of the king. In 1650, he resigned the command of the army to CROMWELL; and nine years afterwards, his lordship, coalescing with Monk, assisted zealously in restoring the monarchy, and was one of the commissioners deputed, upon that occasion, to the king. Soon after this event, Lord Fairfax represented the co. of York in parliament; but passed the latter end of his life in rural retirement. His lordship m. Anne, dau. and co-heir of Sir Horatio Vere, Lord Vere of Tilbury, by whom he had an only child, Mary, who m. George Villiers, 2nd duke of Buckingham. Wolfe, 1759 (unm.); Hannah, m. to Warner Washington, cousin to Gen. Washington.

His lordship d. in 1685, and was s. by his elder son,

I. Margaret, m. to the Rev. David Wilkins, D.D., prebendary of Canterbury.

II. Frances, m. to Denny Martin, Esq.; and dying 1791, left,

2 PHILIP MARTIN, lieut.-gen. in the army; who inherited from his brother Leeds Castle, and assumed the name of FAIRFAX. He d. unm. in 1821, when Leeds Castle passed to the representative of his aunt and heir-at-law, FIENNES WYKEHAM MARTIN, Esq.

The baron was s. in 1710, by his eldest son,

THOMAS, 6th baron. This nobleman inherited from his mother a considerable fortune, consisting of several manors in Kent, estates in the Isle of Wight, and a tract of land in Virginia, called the Northern Neck, comprised within the boundaries of the rivers Potomack and Rappahannock, containing, by estimation, 5,700,000 acres. From his father he inherited Denton Hall and other property in Yorkshire, but he was obliged by his mother and grandmother to dispose of those in order to redeem the Colepepper manors. His lordship had a commission in the horse-guards, but visiting his American estates about the year 1739, was so captivated with the soil, climate, and beauties of Virginia, that he resolved to spend the remainder of his life there; and he soon after erected two mansions, Belvoir and Greenway Court, where he continued ever afterwards to reside in a state of baronial hospitality. His dress was plain and simple, his manners modest and unaffected, and his style of living magnificent. Such was his generosity, that he gave up his English estates to his brother Robert, and the surplus of his American income was distributed among his poor neighbours. His principal amusement was hunting; and after the chase he was wont to invite the whole field to partake of his hospitality. He had been educated in revolutionary principles, and had imbibed high notions of republican liberty. He was lieut. and custos rotolorum of Frederick County, and presided at the provincial courts of Winchester (U.S.), where, during the session, he kept an open table. His lordship d. unm., at Greenway Court, in 1782, when the title devolved upon his only surviving brother,

VICE-ADMIRAL SIR WILLIAM-GEORGE FAIRFAX (son of Joseph Fairfax, Esq., of Bagshot, co. Surrey), was born in the year 1738. At an early age he entered the naval service of his country, and continued in it for the long period of sixty-three years. In 1759 he was present at the taking of Quebec under General Wolfe, and in the year 1778, when in command of H.M.S. "Alert," he captured "Le Coureur," the first ship taken in the French war; a service greatly enhanced from the "Arethusa" being engaged at the same time in her celebrated action with the "Belle Poule." But Captain Fairfax more particularly distinguished himself at the memorable battle of Camperdown, on the 11th Oct. 1797, in which engagement he acted as flag captain to Lord Duncan, on board H.M.S. "Roch Castle," says Fenton, in his Pembrokeshire, "is so called from its peculiar site, a circumstance that probably gave name to the first possessor of it whom we hear of, viz.,

Adam de Rupe, who was likewise the founder of Pill Priory. It occupies the south-west extremity of one of those inland rocky ridges with which Pembrokeshire abounds running nearly east and west, and a little to the north of the church of St. Mary de Rupe."

Adam de Rupe, who accompanied Robert FitzStephen to Ireland, in the year 1196, was a man "of great possessions and power" in Pembrokeshire, founded Pill Priory, built Roch Castle, the church of St. Mary of Roch, that of Langwm, and many others in the same county.

FERRERS.

FERRERS, EARL (Sir Sewallis-Edward Shirley), Viscount Tamworth, and a baronet, b. 24 Jan. 1847; s. his father as 10th earl, 13 March, 1859.

Lineage.

The very ancient and honourable family of SHIRLEY has had the good fortune to have been illustrated by an historical narrative, compiled by a distinguished member of its own house. Sir Thomas Shirley, of Botolph's Bridge, composed three distinct MS. histories of the SHIRLEYS, all of which are preserved in the British Museum, and in our own time, Mr. Evelyn-Philip Shirley, of Ettington and Lough Fea, a very learned and accomplished archæologist, has written a comprehensive and able memoir of his illustrious house, under the title of "Stemmata Shirliana." From these authorities it appears that the Shirleys derive descent from SASUALLO or SEWALLUS DE ETINGDON whose name, (says DUGDALE, in his Antiquities of Warwickshire) argues him to be of the old English stock. He resided at Nether-Etingdon, in the co. Warwick, about the reign of King EDWARD THE CONFESSOR, which place had been the seat of his ancestors, as there is reason to believe, for many generations before that period.

After the CONQUEST, the lordship of Etingdon was given to Henry, Earl of Ferrars, in Normandy, who was one of the principal adventurers with the Norman Duke WILLIAM, and was held under him by this Sewallus, with whose posterity, in the male line, it has continued to the present reign, the late Hon. George Shirley, who d. in 1787, having been owner thereof. This long continuance of ownership is mentioned by DUGDALE, who says, in his Warwickshire, that Etingdon is the only place in the county which could glory in an uninterrupted succession of its owners for so long a space of time.

As appears by Kenilworth Register, Sewallus de Etingdon, before mentioned, founded and endowed the church of Nether-Etingdon. That he was an eminent man, is obvious from his large possessions in the counties of Warwick, Lincoln, Northampton, and Derby, in the time of the CONQUEROR, few being allowed at that change to enjoy more than a part of their estates, and even obliged to hold that portion by military and other services, from their new lords. Therefore, if we may guess of his authority by the extent of his estate, which amounted to seventeen hides of land in this place only, he must have been no less than a Thane in the time of the Saxons, which was the same degree of honour among them as a Baron or Peer of England after the Norman CONQUEST; for, as the learned Selden observes, little more than five hides of land was an estate for some who were so dignified. He d. about 1085, and was s. by his only child,

FULCHER, who d. about 1105, leaving issue,

I SEWALLUS, his heir.
II. Henry, from whom descended the family of Ireton, co. Derby, who took the name of IRETON.

II. Fulcher, who held four knights' fees, but d. s. p.
III. Hugh, a priest. IV. Ralph. V. Richard.

Having translated his seat from Etingdon to Shirley in Derbyshire, he was the first of the family who called himself DE SHIRLEY. He was s. by his eldest son,

HENRY, who held five knights' fees in Derbyshire, of Robert de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, and d. about 1165. He gave the lordship of Ivanbrook to the monks of Bildewas, and was a witness to the foundation charter of Merevalle Abbey. He left issue, by Joanna, dau. and heir of John de Clinton, of Essex,

SEWALLUS, his son and heir, who, in 1167, acknowledged himself to hold of William de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, those nine knights' fees which Henry his father, and his uncle, sometime held of Earl Robert, grandfather to the said earl. He m. Isabel, dau. and co-heir of Robert Meynell, of Langley-Meynell, co. Derby, by whom he had a dau., Elizabeth, wife of John de Walton, son of Simon, Bishop of Norwich; and a son and heir,

SIR RALPH DE SHIRLEY, in the 7th year of EDWARD I., held the manor of Ettendon, co. Warwick, of Edmund, Earl of Lancaster, the king's brother, by the service of two knights' fees. In the 28th of the same reign, he had the custodies of the cos. Salop and Stafford, with the castle of Shrewsbury, committed to his charge, and was sheriff of the cos. Derby and Nottingham in the 27th, 28th, and 30th of the same king. In the 3rd EDWARD II, he was constituted one of the justices of the co. Warwick, for the gaol delivery, and in two years after was elected to parliament for that co. He m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Walter de Waldeshief, of Fairfield, co. This Sir Thomas is said to be "the great founder of the family of Shirley, famous in his time for his valour, and for the many services, &c., rendered to the Kings of England, against the French." He m. Isabel, granddau. of Ralph, Lord Basset of Drayton, and eventually heir of her brother Ralph, the last Lord Basset of that line (since whose decease that barony has been in abeyance (see BURKE'S Extinct Peerage), and, dying in 1362, was s. by his son,

SIR HUGH SHIRLEY, Knt., who s. also to the estates of his uncle, Lord Basset of Drayton. FIFE.

FIFE, EARL (Alexander-William-George Duff), Viscount Macduff and Baron Braco, of Kilbryde, co. Cavan, in the peerage of Ireland; and Baron Skene, of Skene, in the peerage of the United Kingdom; lord-lieut. of co. Elgin; formerly M.P. cos. Elgin and Nairn, b. 10 Nov. 1849; s. his father as 6th earl, 7 Aug. 1879.

Lineage.

This noble family is stated to derive from FYFE MACDUFF, a chieftain of great wealth and power, who lived about the year 834, and who afforded to KENNETH II., King of Scotland, strong aid against his enemies the Picts. In reward of these services, Macduff received from the monarch a grant of all the lands then called Othelinia, which he himself had conquered from the Picts, and which extended from Fifeness to Clackmannan, from east to west, and from the river Forth on the south, to the rivers Tay and Erne, on the north. Of that tract of land, which he called Fife, Macduff was appointed hereditary thane. The 8th in descent from him was the

MACDUFF, with whom the genius of Shakespeare has made the world familiar. This powerful thane having mainly contributed to the destruction of the usurper, MACBETH, and to the restoration of MALCOLM CEANMOHR, the latter king confirmed to him his co. of Fife, of which he created him earl in 1061. The 13th earl,

DUNCAN, dying in 1353, without issue male, the earldom became extinct. His descendant, however, DAVID DUFF, received, in 1401, from ROBERT III. a grant of considerable lands and of the barony of Muldavit, which continued to be one of the chief titles of the family, until alienated in the beginning of the reign of CHARLES II. The descendant of David Duff,

WILLIAM DUFF, Esq., was elevated to the peerage of Ireland, by the Queen Regent CAROLINE, as Baron Braco of Kilbryde, 28 July, 1735; and advanced to a viscounty and earldom, 16 April, 1759, by the titles of Viscount Macduff and EARL FIFE.* His lordship m. 1st, Jane Ogilvie, dau. of James, Earl of Findlater and Seafield, and chancellor of Ireland, but by her (who d. 1722) he had no issue. Lineage.

This noble family is of Danish origin, but its settlement in Ireland is so remote that nothing certain can be ascertained as to the precise period. So early as the 11th century we find

JOHN PLUNKETT was seated at Beaulieu, or Bewley, co. Meath, the constant residence of the elder branch of his descendants. The successor at Bewley, in the beginning of the 13th century,

JOHN PLUNKETT, living temp. HENRY III, had two sons; John, ancestor of the Lords Louth, and

RICHARD PLUNKETT, of Rathregan, co. Meath, who, with his son and heir, RICHARD PLUNKETT, by royal writs of parliamentary summons, was summoned to, and sat in the parliaments and great council of 1374; the one as a baron, and the other "de concilio regis." The younger Richard Plunkett was father of

SIR CHRISTOPHER PLUNKETT, Knt. This gentleman, as a recompense for the services he had rendered in the wars of Ireland, and an indemnity for the expenses he had incurred, had a grant of a sum of money from HENRY VI, in 1426; before which time he was sheriff of Meath; and in 1432, was deputy to Sir Thomas Stanley, Knt., lord-lieut. of Ireland. Sir Christopher m. in 1403, Joan, only dau. and heir of Sir Lucas Cusac, Knt., Lord of Killeen, co. Meath, and became in her right proprietor of th barony of Killeen, and by her had issue,

I. JOHN, his heir, of Killeen.
II. Christopher, ancestor of LORD DUNSANY.
III. Thomas, of Rathmore, chief justice, ancestor of the PLUNKETS of Rathmore.
IV. Rowland, whose son and heir, SIR THOMAS PLUNKET, chief justice of the Common Pleas in Ireland, was ancestor of the great house of PLUNKET of Dunsoghlie, whose heir general and representative was the late Major-Gen. the Right Hon. FRANCIS-PLUNKET DUNNE, of Brittas, Queen's County, M.P. for that county.

He d. in 1445, and was s. by his eldest son,

JOHN PLUNKETT, 2nd Lord of Killeen, who was s. by his son,

SIR CHRISTOPHER PLUNKETT (who in an act of parliament, 27 HENRY VI, is called "Christofre Plunkett le puisne Seigneur de Killeen"), 3rd Lord of Killeen. This feudal lord m. twice; 1st, Genet, dau. of Bellew of Bellewstown, by whom he had two sons, the younger of whom, Broughton, fell at the battle of Stoke in 1487, fighting for Lambert Simnel. Sir Christopher m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Wells, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, by his wife, a dau. of Barnewall of Crickston, by whom (who was m. 2ndly, to John Fleming, of Newcastle, Lord Slane) he had a dau., who m. Nicholas, 16th Baron of Howth, and two sons. Sir Christopher d. in 1487, and was s. by his eldest son,

CHRISTOPHER PLUNKETT, 4th Lord of Killeen, who had summons to parliament in 1463, and is called in a statute of that year, "Christofre Plunkett, Esquire, Fitz and Heire de Christofre Plunkett, Chevalier, Jadetz Seigneur de Killeen." He d. without issue, and was s. by his brother and heir male.

EDMUND, Lord of Killeen, whose titles and descent are set forth in a statute of the year 1470, and who is styled, in the roll bearing date 1481, as Edmundus Plunkett, Dominus de Killeen. He had issue a son and heir,

SIR JOHN PLUNKETT, Lord of Killeen, who was sworn of the Privy Council to HENRY VIII, and was found by inquisition to have had four sons. The 2nd son,

CHRISTOPHER PLUNKETT, who s. to the titles and estates as heir to his brother Patrick, was an active and gallant nobleman, who discharged many high functions and commissions under the royal authority. He sat in the parliament of 1509, and having m the granddau. of the Baron of Slane, left issue, three daus., his co-heirs,

Maude, m. to the Baron of Louth.
Catherine, m. to David Sutton, Esq.
Margaret, m. to Nicholas Aylmer, Esq. of Dullardston.

Christopher was s. by his brother and heir male,

JAMES PLUNKETT, Lord Killeen, whose inheritance of the ancient family dignity was not opposed or questioned by the daus. co-heirs of his deceased brother, and he took his place in the House of Peers in the year 1585. On the 15 April, 1589, he enfeoffed trustees in his family estates, and was s. at his decease by his son and heir,

CHRISTOPHER PLUNKETT, Baron of Killeen, when aged 5, who sat in the parliament of 1613, and dying soon after was s. by his eldest son,

LUCAS, the 10th lord, styled Lucas More. This nobleman had a large grant of territory in 1613, and was created EARL OF FINGALL, 26 Sept. 1628, the King preluding the honour by a most flattering letter, dated Westminster, 28 June, in that year, beginning thus:—"That having received good testimonies of the virtuous and many good parts of his right trusty and well beloved subject, the Lord Baron Killeen, being one of the ancient nobility of Ireland, his majesty was pleased," &c. &c. His lordship m. four times, and had issue by his 2nd marriage, with Susannah, 5th dau. of Edward, Lord Brabazon (only), of which,

CHRISTOPHER, the eldest son, s. to the honours.
George, the 4th son, a capt. of foot at the siege of Drogheda, in 1641, and afterwards col. in the rebel army. He m. Cicely, dau. of Sir William Hill, of Allenston, co. Meath, and had,
JAMES, who m. 1st, Catherine, dau. of Edward Plunkett, of Loughcrew, and niece of Oliver Plunkett, titular primate of all Ireland in 1681, a clergyman of great virtues and ability, who fell a victim to the times in which he lived, being most unjustly executed in 1681, as one of the conspirators in the pretended Popish Plot. By this lady he had a dau., Mary, m. to William O'Mara. He m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Robert Cusack, Esq. of Jerristown, co. Meath, and had, with other issue,
ROBERT, who s. as 6th earl.

His lordship d. in 1637, and was s. by his eldest son,

CHRISTOPHER, 2nd earl. This nobleman having been made prisoner at the battle of Rathmines, d. in the castle of Dublin fourteen days afterwards, A.D. 1649, and was s. by his son (by Mabell, dau. of Nicholas, Viscount Kingsland),

LUKE, 3rd earl, who was restored to his estates and honours, by the Court of Claims, and was s. at his decease by his only son,

PETER, 4th earl. This nobleman was outlawed by the name of Luke, in 1691, for his loyalty to his legitimate sovereign, JAMES II, but the outlawry was reversed in six years afterwards, A.D. 1697 His lordship m. Frances, 3rd dau. of Sir Edward Hales, Bart., and dying 24 Jan. 1717, left issue.

JUSTIN, his successor.
Margaret, m. to J. Nugent, Esq. of Coolamber.
Emilia, m. to Robert, Earl Nugent.
Mary, m. to Maurice O'Connor, Esq. of Mount Pleasant, King's Co.

His lordship was s. by his only son,

JUSTIN, 5th earl, who d. in 1733, without issue, and intestate, and was s. in his titles and estates, by his cousin and heir male,

ROBERT, 6th earl (refer to George, 2nd son of Lucas, 1st earl); who enjoyed the honours without opposition or question on the part of the three daus. and heirs lineal of Peter, 4th earl. In about a century afterwards, however, the grandson of the youngest dau. Maurice O'Connor, Esq., made claim to the Barony of Killeen, as a barony created by writ, and as such, inheritable through females. Like all other claims of the same nature, it has been unsuccessful, though brought forward at a time when the feelings of the Irish government were violently excited against the Earl of Fingall. Robert, 6th Earl of Fingall, was a captain in Berwick's regiment, in the service of France. He m. Mary, dau. of Roger Magenis, Esq. of Iveagh, co. Down; and dying in 1738, left, with a dau., Anne, wife of William Saltmarsh, Esq. of Yorkshire, a son and successor,

ARTHUR-JAMES, 7th earl, then in his seventh year. His lordship m. in 1755, Henrietta-Maria, only dau. and heir of William Wollascot,* Esq. of Woolhampton, co. Berks, by whom (who d. 12 March. 1806) he had issue,

ARTHUR-JAMES, his heir.
Luke, a capt. in the Austrian service; killed in Italy, in 1794.
Robert, b. 15 Sept. 1765; and d. unm. in 1823.
William, b. in 1770; a col. in the Austrian service; d. at Prague, in 1806.
Theresa, m. 1788, to James Dease, Esq. of Turbotston, co. Westmeath, and d. 4 Feb. 1853, having had, with other children, the late Gerald Dease, Esq. of Turbotston.

His lordship d. 21 Aug. 1793, and was s. by his son,

ARTHUR-JAMES, 8th earl, K.P., b. 9 Sept. 1759; who was created a peer of the United Kingdom, 20 June, 1831, by the title of Baron Fingall, of Woolhampton Lodge, co. Berks. He m. Dec. 1785, Francis, dau. of John Donelan, Esq. of Bally Donelan, co. Galway, by whom (who d. Jan. 1835) he had issue,

ARTHUR-JAMES, 9th earl.
Harriet, m. 11 Sept. 1817, to John Jones, Esq., of Llanarth Court, in the co. of Monmouth, who d. 22 April, 1848. (See BURKE's Landed Gentry). His family have since assumed the name of HERBERT.

* William Wollascot is supposed by the Rev. Thomas Wharton, in his History and Antiquities of Kiddington, to be of the same family as the WELLESCOTS, or WELLEUMSCOTS, who formerly held that manor. "Of the name of Wellescote, corrupted from Welleumscott, there is," says Mr. Wharton, "a family seated at Woolhampton, near Newbury, in Berkshire. They write Woollascote. The last heiress, as I apprehend, intermarried with the Earl of Fingall, an Irish peer, within these last twenty years (1773), who is now living in that place."

His lordship d. 30 July, 1836, and was s. by his only son,

ARTHUR-JAMES, K.P., P.C., lord-lieut. and custos rotulorum of Meath; who was b. at Geneva, 29 March, 1791; and m. 11 Dec. 1817, Louisa-Emilia, only dau. of Elias Corbally, Esq. of Corbalton Hall, co. Meath, and by her (who d. 7 April, 1866) had issue,

Embassy at St. Petersburgh, 1877, b. 3 Feb. 1835; m. 22 Aug. 1870, Mary-Tevis, dau. of Charles Waln Morgan, Esq. of Philadelphia, and has a son, b. 19 June, 1871, and a dau., b. 25 April, 1875.

Sir Edmund, during the revolutionary times of the Commonwealth, burnt his castle of Clenglish, to prevent its falling into the hands of the rebels, and raised and maintained, at his own expense, a regiment of horse in support of the royal cause. After the Restoration, he presented a petition to CHARLES II., praying to be reinstated in the property of which CROMWELL had deprived him; but the Act of Settlement having passed, his petition was in vain. In consequence of the destruction of the Castle of Clenglish, the baronet established

Fitzgerald, Sir Augustine, Bart., of Newmarket-on-Fergus, co. Clare, High Sheriff, 1871, lieut.-col. late Bengal horse artillery; b. 12 March, 1809; s. as 4th bart. at the decease of his brother, 13 March, 1865; m. 10 Dec. 1832, Eliza-Margaret, dau. of William Gore, Esq., and by her (who d. 31 Aug. 1877), had a son, Augustine, b. Sept. 1834; d. 21 May, 1865.

Lineage.

This is a very ancient branch of the noble and illustrious race of the Geraldines, seated at an early period at the Castle of Pallice, in the county of Limerick. Family tradition relates that the descendant of that family and the direct ancestor of the Carrygoran Fitzgeralds was instrumental in saving the life of King Charles at the battle of Naseby. Of the Clare family there were two branches, the representative of one, that of Moigh Castle and Six Mile Bridge viz., Col. Augustine Fitzgerald, d. in 1776, having devised the reversion of his property to his kinsmen, of Carrygoran. The estate of Carrygoran, was acquired by Edward Fitzgerald, Esq. of Rynana, co. Clare, (of the Pallice line), in 1667, from Col. Daniel O'Brien, afterwards Viscount Clare. His son and heir,

John Fitzgerald, Esq., of Carrygoran, m. (contract dated 1 May, 1680) the Hon. Ellen Butler, dau. of Pierce, 2nd Viscount Ikerrin, who was son of the Hon. James Butler, by Ellen his wife, dau. of Edmund, 3rd Lord Dunboyne, and grandson of Pierce, 1st Viscount Ikerrin, by Lady Ellen Butler, his wife, daughter of Walter, 11th Earl of Ormonde. Sir William was s. by his son,

SIR WILLIAM FITZWILLIAM, Lord of Elmley and Sprotburgh, living 1117, as appears from a grant made by him of a piece of wood in Elmley to the monks of Piland. To this grant is a round seal, representing a man on horseback, completely armed, and circumscribed, S. Willmi Filij Willmi Dni de Emmalaia; and on the reverse, the arms of Fitzwilliam; viz., Lozengy. This Sir William, or one of his descendants, caused a cross to be set up in the High Street of Sprotborough, with these words engraven on brass:—

"Whoso is hungry, and lists to eate,
Let him come to Sprotburgh to his meate;
And for a night, and for a day,
His horse shall have both corn and hay,
And no man shall ask him where he goeth away."

Sir William was father of SIR WILLIAM FITZWILLIAM, who m. Ella, dau. and co-heir of William de Warren, Earl of Surrey, and d. 1148, leaving a son and successor, SIR WILLIAM FITZWILLIAM, who m. Albreda, dau. of Robert de Lisoures, and widow of Richard FitzEustace, and d. 1184, leaving a son, SIR WILLIAM FITZWILLIAM, who m. Ella, dau. of Hameline Plantagenet, Earl of Surrey, and was father of SIR THOMAS FITZWILLIAM, who m. Agnes, dau. of Roger Bertram, of Mitford, and was s. by his son, SIR WILLIAM FITZWILLIAM, who m. Agnes, dau. of Richard, Lord Grey, of Codnor, and had a son, SIR WILLIAM FITZWILLIAM, living 1 EDWARD III., who m. Maud, dau. of Edward, Lord D'Eyncourt, and was father of SIR WILLIAM FITZWILLIAM, of Milton and Gainspark, co. Essex, and also of the city of London, of which he was sheriff in 1506, and subsequently alderman of Bread-street Ward. He had been for some time in the train of Cardinal Wolsey, and retiring afterwards to his house at Milton, there gave his old master, the cardinal, in the hour of his disgrace, a kind reception; for which conduct, being brought to task by King HENRY, he replied that he had not acted in contemptuous disobedience of his highness's orders, but in gratitude to the fallen minister, who had been his master, and partly the founder of his good fortune; at which answer the king was so pleased, that he immediately knighted Mr. Fitzwilliam, and made him one of his privy council. This eminent person is thus noticed by Fuller, in his Worthies of England:—"Sir William Fitzwilliam was five times lord-deputy of Ireland a sufficient evidence of his honesty and ability, Queen ELIZABETH never trusting twice where she was once deceived in a minister of state. And she also preserved him in the power of his place, that, sending over Walter, Earl of Essex, to be governor of Ulster, the earl was ordered to take his commission from the lord-deputy." At a small distance from these, and upon the same hill, the spot is shown where Macduff killed Macbeth; and there is still a large cairn, called Macbeth's, in which ancient arms were found some years ago.) Lineage.

Lord Clermont, in his History of the Fortescues, fully refers to the origin of the noble house of which he is a distinguished scion. The venerable and almost uniform tradition is as follows:—"Sir Richard le Fort, a very strong man, a Norman knight, and cupbearer to the Duke of Normandy, landed in England with his master in the year 1066, and fighting in the great battle of Hastings, saved the Duke, who had three horses killed under him, from some great peril, protecting him with his shield from the blows of an assailant. In allusion to this deed of valour, Richard, before named Le Fort, under which name, as Fort or Forz, he appears in Grafton's and Holinshed's copies of the Rolls of Battle Abbey, was thenceforward known as "Richard le Fort-Escu," or the Strong Shield, "which surname," says Holinshed, "is deduced from the strength of his shield, whereof that familie had first originall." The son of this gallant warrior,

Sir Adam Fortescue, Knt., being also a participator in the same conflict, obtained, it is stated, from the successful monarch a grant of Wymondeston, or, as it is now written, Winston, co. Devon, of which he became Lord. The descendant of this Sir Adam,

Sir John Fortescue, Knt., who being bred to the bar, was constituted Lord-Chief Justice of England, in 1442, and is said to have been made lord-chancellor by Henry VI., after that monarch was forced to fly into Scotland. Sir John was esteemed a very eminent lawyer, and was the author of the celebrated treatise, entitled De Laudibus Legum Angliæ, in which he calls himself Cancellarius Angliæ. Sir John retired, after the final overthrow of his royal master, Henry VI., to his seat at Ebrington, and d. there, at the advanced age of ninety. Lineage.

This family have been landowners in Yorkshire since the time of Edward III., when, by inquisitions extant, they are shown to have held the Manor of Weighton. The name is variously spelt Franckland, Franklyn, and Franklin, and branches were settled at Lynton, Nelsing, Aldwark, Blubberhouse, Fewston, Thirkelby, Danby, and Roche Abbey, all in the county of York; and at Coken, Houghton-le-Spring, and Archdeacon-Newton, in Durham; at the Rye, in Hertford; at Thurleigh, in Bedford, and other places. The present baronet has instituted a detailed investigation, with a view of establishing the earlier descents of his family, and of connecting several lines not hitherto known to have had a common origin, the result of which, although it may hereafter be epitomised, is too lengthy for full entry in this work. In the time of Queen ELIZABETH, there were living of this family,

1 WILLIAM FRANKLAND, of the Rye, who, amassing a considerable fortune bequeathed the Manors of Fewston, Thirkelby, and Blubberhouse to his representatives, all of which properties remained in the family till alienated by the will of Sir Robert Frankland, 7th baronet; 2 RICHARD, of Blubberhouse, his brother, ancestor of the present baronet; 3 RICHARD, of the city of York, grandson of Richard of Nelsing; 4 JOHN, of Coken, co. Durham; 5 THOMAS, of Archdeacon-Newton; 6 WILLIAM, of Houghton-le-Spring; and 7 WILLIAM, of Thurleigh, co. Bedford, who were all cousins, and nephews of William Franklyn, Dean of Windsor, who had the grant of a special coat of arms "for recoveryng the castle of Norham out of the Scots hands by hys prowys and policy."

GAGE.

GAGE, VISCOUNT (Sir Henry-Charles Gage), of Castle Island, co. Kerry; Baron Gage, of Castlebar, co. Mayo, in the peerage of Ireland; Baron Gage, of High Meadow, co. Gloucester, in the peerage of Great Britain; and a Baronet, b. 2 April, 1854; s. his grandfather as 5th viscount, 20 Jan. 1877.

Lineage.

The SIRE DE GAUGI is named on the Roll of Battle Abbey among those who fought at Hastings, and appears to have derived his name from the seignory of Gaugy, near Rouen, in Normandy. RALPH DE GAUGI paid his aid as tenant in capite, towards marrying the king's daughter in 1166. His son, Robert, was a strong adherent of King JOHN in his wars with the barons. He obtained Thornton and Langester, in the bishopric of Durham, by marriage with Beatrice, dau. and heir of Robert Lovel, by whom he had two sons, Ralph, the eldest, d. 1243, whose son, of the same name, d. 1279; and his successor, ADAM DE GAUGI, dying s. p. in 1287, the estates passed to the De Cliffords.

WILLIAM DE GAUGE, 2nd son of Robert, was made constable of Caermarthen Castle, by HENRY III. in 1234, and received from that monarch several grants of lands in South Wales and Gloucestershire. From him the extant GAGES derive; and they continued to reside at Cirencester, co. Gloucester, until the death of JOHN GAUGE, or GAGE (only son of John de Gauge, of Cirencester), who had m. Joan, dau. and co-heir of John Sudgrove, of Sudgrove-in-Miserden, co. Gloucester; and dying circa 1440, was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN GAGE, Knt. of Burstowe, co. Surrey, who acquired that seat, as well as Penshurst, in Kent and considerable estates in Sussex and Buckinghamshire, with his wife Eleanor, dau. and co-heir of Thomas St Clere (only son of Sir Philip St. Clere, Knt. of Igtham, by Margaret, sole heir of Sir Nicholas de Lovayne, Knt. of Burstowe, and grandson of Sir Philip St. Clere, Knt., M.P. for Sussex in 1377). He d. in 1476, leaving two sons, of whom John was ancestor of the GAGES of Rushton, co. Northampton, whilst the elder,

WILLIAM GAGE, s. to Burstowe. Penshurst, afterwards so celebrated as the property of the Sidneys, and the theme of Waller's verse, being sold, this William formed a seat, where his heirs still reside, at West Firle, on the manor of Heighton-St. Clere, which had come to his mother's family by the marriage of John de St. Clere (who d. 1327) with Isolda, sole heir of Thomas de Aldham, of Igtham and Aldham, in Kent. Mr. Gage m. Agnes, sister of John Bolney, of Bolney, in Sussex, M.P. for that co. 1459, and dying 1496, was s. at Firle, by his son,

SIR JOHN GAGE, K.G., a distinguished soldier and statesman, whose services are thus detailed in an ancient MS. by his 3rd son Robert. "Sir John Gage, Knt. who was, after his father's death, in ward to W. Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, and after his marriage to my mother, dau. of Sir Richard Guldeford, was preferred by the said duke to HENRY VIII.'s service, and distinguished himself at the siege of Terovene, was thereupon made captain of the castle of Calais (usually called Guysnes), shortly after was sent for home, and knighted, and made of the privy-council, vice-chamberlain, and captain of the guards; few years after, for services done on the borders of Scotland, at his return, was made comptroller of the household, and chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in one day. In a few days after he was made constable of the Tower of London, and, the next St. George's feast, knight of the most noble order of the Garter; at the winning of Bullogne (36th HENRY VIII.), he was in joint commission with Charles, Duke of Suffolk, lord-lieutenant of his majesty's camp; and for sundry services there with Sir Anthony Browne, Knt., master of the horse, was made general captain of the bands of horsemen. After the death of our sovereign lord EDWARD VI., at the coming of Queen MARY, was made her lord-chamberlain. Thus, having served in all these rooms and offices truly, faithfully, and painfully, from the 1st year of our sovereign lord HENRY VIII., of famous memory, unto the 5th year of Queen MARY, untouched with any reproach or unfaithful service, at this time being 77 years of age, he ended his life, in favour with his prince, at his own house, at Firle, in Sussex."

Lineage.

The Earl of Galloway is of the royal blood of Scotland.

ALEXANDER, sixth lord high steward of Scotland, obtained from King ALEXANDER III., in 1263, a grant of the lands of Gairlies, (or as more commonly called, Garlies). He m. Jean, dau. and heir of Angus MacRorie, Lord of Bute; and d. in 1283, leaving issue, JAMES, seventh lord high steward of Scotland, grandfather of the first Stuart king, ROBERT II., and consequently ancestor of the whole royal line of Stuart; and a younger son,

SIR JOHN STEWART, who obtained from his father the lands of Garlies. This Sir John Stewart was a great hero and patriot, and was one of those worthies who, when King ALEXANDER III. died, entered into that memorable association, the members of which bound themselves to stand by one another in defence of their country and of him who by right of blood should inherit Scotland's crown. This historic obligement bears date 20 Dec. 1286. Sir John Stewart was among the nobles chosen on the part of ROBERT BRUCE in his competition for the Scottish throne with John Baliol in 1292. Stewart performed many notable actions in the public service, and fell at last fighting valiantly against the English at the battle of Falkirk, 22 July, 1298. He m. Margaret, dau. and heir of Sir Alexander Bonkill, of Bonkill, in whose right he acquired possession of many lands, and particularly of the barony of Bonkill. He left issue,

I. Alexander Stewart, of Bonkill, 1st Earl of Angus, ancestor of the Dukes of Douglas, extinct.

II. Sir Alan Stewart, of Dreghorn, ancestor of the Stewarts of Darnley, Earls and Dukes of Lennox, extinct.

III. SIR WALTER STEWART, of Dalswinton, of whom presently.

IV. SIR JOHN STEWART, of Jedburgh.
V. Sir James Stewart, of Preston.
I. Isabella, wife of the gallant Thomas Randolph, Earl of Moray, who obtained the barony of Garlies, which passed to his son, John, Earl of Moray.

The third son,

SIR WALTER STEWART was a gallant adherent of Robert Bruce, and shared in that prince's toils and glories. When Bruce had won his crown, he gave to this faithful and able follower the lands and barony of Dalswinton. Sir Walter Stewart also obtained the Barony of Garlies from John Randolph, Earl of Moray, by charter, wherein the earl denominates Sir Walter his uncle. Sir Walter Stewart was father of

SIR JOHN STEWART, of Dalswinton, who, true to the attachment of his race to the house of Bruce, was, according to Rymer, made prisoner (when King DAVID BRUCE was also taken) at the battle of Durham, in 1346. He was likewise one of the hostages for King DAVID in 1357. This Sir John left issue,

SIR WALTER STEWART, of Dalswinton and Garlies, a personage of note temp. ROBERT II. and ROBERT III. He had an only child and heir,

MARION STEWART, who m. 17 Oct. 1396,

SIR JOHN STEWART, son of Sir William Stewart, of Jedworth, sheriff of Tiviotdale (said to be of the house of Darnley), and left two sons, WILLIAM; and John, provost of Glasgow. The elder son,

SIR WILLIAM STEWART, of Dalswinton and Garlies, obtained the estate of Minto, in 1429, after much opposition from the Turnbulls, the former possessors. He was living in the year 1479, and had issue,

ANDREW, who d. before his father, s. p.
ALEXANDER (Sir), his successor.
Thomas (Sir), of Minto, ancestor of Lord Blantyre.
Walter, of Tonderghie, ancestor of the Stewarts of Tonderghie, and of Sir James-Annesley Stewart, Bart., of Fort Stewart, co. Donegal.

Sir William was s. by his eldest surviving son,

SIR ALEXANDER STEWART, of Garlies, who m. Elizabeth Steward, by whom he had John, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Shaw, of Hallie, but d. s. p. before his father, and another son, his successor,

ALEXANDER, who in his father's lifetime was designated Alexander of Garlies, which continued to be the chief title of the family till they were made Earls of Galloway. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Archibald Douglas, of Cavers, heritable sheriff of Teviotdale, and dying in 1501, was s. by his elder son,

SIR ALEXANDER STEWART, of Garlies, who was in great favour with JAMES IV., and who fell with his royal master at the fatal battle of Flodden, 9 Sept. 1513. He left by his wife, Elizabeth Kennedy, one son and sixteen daus., the eldest of whom, Janet, was m. to Sir John Kennedy, of Culzean, and each of the others became the wife of a laird of distinction. Sir Alexander was s. by his only son,

SIR ALEXANDER STEWART, of Garlies, who was one of the prisoners taken at the rout of Solway, in Nov. 1542; and appears to have been released, in 1543, on giving his son and heir ALEXANDER, as his hostage. He m. thrice, and had, by his 2nd wife, Margaret, dau. and heir of Patrick Dunbar, Esq. of Clugston, with other issue, an eldest son, ALEXANDER STEWART, the younger, of Garlies, who was a personage of great bravery and spirit, and was a zealous promoter of the Reformation. He sent a challenge to the famous Sir William Kirkaldy, of Grange, governor of Edinburgh Castle for the Queen; but Sir William evaded the rencontre, from caution, not from fear, because he deemed his life at that time of the utmost consequence to his sovereign. Alexander Stewart was appointed commissioner for the Kirks of Nithsdale, and was a member of the convention or parliament that met in 1560. He was knighted when Lord Darnley was made Earl of Ross, and was one of those who signed a protection, together with Queen MARY's privy council, to the Earl of Murray to come and discover the pretended conspiracy against his life in 1565. Sir Alexander adhered firmly to the interest of JAMES VI. in his minority, and was slain with the Regent Lennox at the surprise of Stirling in 1571, in the lifetime of his father. By his wife Catherine, dau. and co-heir of Lord Herries, of Terregles, he left a son, ALEXANDER, successor to his grandfather.

Sir Alexander, the elder, d. in 1590, and was s. by his grandson,

SIR ALEXANDER STEWART, of Garlies, who was in great favour with JAMES VI., who knighted him in 1590 at the coronation of his consort, Queen ANNE of Denmark. Sir Alexander m. 1st, Christian, dau. of Sir William Douglas, of Drumlanrig, and 2ndly, the Lady Elizabeth Douglas, dau. of David, Earl of Angus, and widow of Robert, Lord Maxwell. By his first wife only, he had issue, viz.,

I. Helen, m. to John Douglas, of Stanhouse.
II. Jane, m. to John Kennedy, of Culzean.
III. Nicholas, m. to John Dunbar, of Mochrum.

Sir Alexander was s. in 1596, by his eldest son,

SIR ALEXANDER STEWART, a man of great talent, loyalty, and integrity, who, after receiving the honour of knighthood, was elevated to the peerage, 19 July, 1607, by the title of Baron of Garlies, and upon 9 Sept. 1623, his lordship was advanced to the EARLDOM OF GALLOWAY, when he was sworn of the privy council of JAMES VI. The Earl was afterwards a stanch adherent of CHARLES I.; he was of his privy council, and never failed to be active in his interest. He m. Grisel, dau. of Sir John Gordon, of Lochinvar, ancestor of Viscount Kenmure; and dying in 1619, left, with a dau. Anne, m. to Andrew Agnew, of Lochnaw, an only surviving son,

SIR JAMES STEWART, Bart. (so created in 1627), as 2nd earl, who was served heir to his elder brother, Alexander, Lord Garlies, in 1643. His lordship was a firm adherent of the Stuarts; and when, in 1654, Oliver Cromwell gave an act of indemnity to the Scots, this Earl, for his attachment to the royal family, was fined £4,000. He, however, lived to see the Restoration, and came into great favour with CHARLES II.; he m. Nicola, dau. of Sir Robert Grierson, of Lag; and dying in 1671, was s. by his eldest son,

ALEXANDER, 3rd earl. This nobleman m. Mary, dau. of James, 2nd Earl of Queensberry, by whom he had three sons and two daus. His lordship was s. by the eldest son,

Lineage.

SIR RICHARD DE BOYLE, Knt. of Kelburne, living temp. ALEXANDER III., m. Margery, dau. of Sir Walter Cumming, and had issue,

ROBERT DE BOYLE, of Kilburne, who swore allegiance, as a Scottish baron, in 1296, to EDWARD I. of England. From this Robert descended

HUGO DE BOYLE, who, in 1399, gave his lands to the monastery of Paisley, for the good of his soul; and from whom lineally sprang

JOHN BOYLE, slain at the battle of Bannockburn in 1488, whose son,

JOHN BOYLE, obtained from JAMES V., a grant of divers lands in the isle of Cumbra, near Bute, m. Agnes, dau. of the Baron Ross, of Hawkhead, co. Renfrew, killed at Flodden, 9 Sept. 1513. By John Boyle's marriage with Agnes Ross, a portion of the estate of Hawkhead was inherited by his 2nd son, John, while his own property devolved upon (his eldest son David's son) his grandson.

* Through this marriage the present family of Gladstone can show a descent from HENRY III., King of England, and Robert Bruce, King of Scotland, thus: Lady Joan Beaufort, a descendant of Henry III., m. James I. of Scotland, a descendant of Bruce, and from this alliance is clearly traced the descent of Andrew Robertson, the sheriff-substitute of Rosshire, whose dau. Anne m. as above, Sir John Gladstone. (See BURKE'S Royal Descents.)

Lineage.

The family of Gooch is of great antiquity, and has flourished for a long period in various parts of Norfolk and Suffolk.

RICHARD GOOCH, of Brome, and his son, Thomas, were both mentioned in the will of Thomas Gooch, clerk, vicar of St. Michael, dated 5 Aug. 1482. This Richard Gooch, who died in 1504, had three sons and three daus., all living at the date of their father's will, 27 May, 1502. The eldest son,

THOMAS GOOCH, succeeded his father, and was seated at Great Peringland. He died in 1516, having had issue

PETER GOOCH, of St. Margaret Ilketshall, buried there 7 Nov. 1558. He is presumed to have been nephew of the above Thomas Gooch, of Great Peringland. He possessed lands in Rumborough and other places, co. Suffolk, and had, with other issue, Thomas of St. Margaret Ilketshall, who was buried there in Sept. 1570, leaving with other issue,

ROBERT GOOCH, of Bungay, in the county of Suffolk, who possessed lands in Bungay, Ilketshall, and Mettingham, by devise from his father, and had (with nine other sons and five daus.) an eldest son,

SIR ADAM DE GORDON, Knt., their son, joined Sir William Wallace in 1297; was one of the wardens of the marches in 1300, and one of the ten commissioners elected at the general council of the Scottish nation at Perth, invested with full parliamentary powers for the settlement of Scotland, under King EDWARD I. in 1305; that same year he was fined three years' rent of his estates for his former opposition to that monarch. Sir Adam, together with the Earl of Atholl and others, was sent in January, 1311, by King EDWARD II., to make a truce with the Scots, for which they had ample powers; he afterwards joined the standard of Bruce. In 1320, King ROBERT I. sent him as one of the ambassadors to Rome, to obtain a repeal of the sentence of excommunication against him. As a reward for the faithful services of Sir Adam, King ROBERT made him a grant of the barony of Strathbogie, in Aberdeenshire, forfeited by David, Earl of Atholl. The Earl of March, in 1377, having burned the town of Roxburgh, the English borderers retaliated on the lands of Sir John de Gordon, who entering England, was encountered by Sir John de Lilburn, whom he defeated at Carham, after a desperate affray. This gallant warrior fell at the battle of Otterburn, 19 August, 1388, leaving a son,

SIR ADAM DE GORDON, of Huntly, who also fell in the field of battle, being killed at Homildon, 14 Sept. 1402, having descended the hill accompanied only by one hundred men the whole of whom perished in a desperate attempt to turn the fortune of the day. GORDON OF EARLSTON.

GORDON, SIR WILLIAM, Bart. of Earlston, co. Kirkcudbright, lieut.-col. late 17th lancers, b. 20 Oct. 1830; s. his father as 6th bart., 8 Jan. 1843; entered the army 1849, and has since served with his regiment, the 17th lancers, in the Crimea and India. He m. 1st, 21 Sept. 1857, Catherine, relict of P.-J. Joyce, Esq., of Caltra Park, co. Galway, and second dau. of John Page, Esq., the eldest son of Samuel Page, Esq., cornet of the Black Horse, and afterwards surveyor-general of customs, and filacer of the Court of Exchequer in Ireland, and by her (who d. at Bombay, 17 Jan. 1864) has had a dau., d. an infant. Sir William m. 2ndly, 23 Aug. 1866, Mary-Grace, eldest dau. of Sir William Maxwell, Bart. of Cardoness.

(Sir William has, since the death of Adam, 11th Viscount Kenmure, 1 Sept. 1847, been looked upon as the nearest heir male, now alive, of SIR JOHN GORDON, 12th Lord of Lochinvar, who was created, by King CHARLES I., Viscount of Kenmure and Lord of Lochinvar; the patent for which creation is dated 8 May, 1633, and conferred the title upon Sir John and his heirs male for ever "et heredibus suis masculis pro perpetuo.")

Lineage.

The house of EARLSTON descends from Alexander, 2nd son of William de Gordoune, 6th Lord of Lochinvar, whose great-grandson,

JOHN GORDON, of Earlston, m. 1st, in 1582, Margaret, eldest dau. of John Sinclair, of Earlston, by whom he had,

Margaret, who m. 1st, John McKnaught, of Kilquhanidy; and 2ndly, Edward Maxwell, of Balmangan, but had no issue to either.

He m. 2ndly, in 1585, Mary, 2nd dau. of James Chalmers, of Gaitgirth, by whom he had,

I. Alexander, 2nd Gordon of Earlston, M.P.
II. William, of Carleton, father of James, 2nd Gordon of Carleton, who d. unm. in 1688, and settled Carleton on his cousin, John.
III. Robert, d. s. p. et v. p. in 1626.
IV. James, a col. in the army, d. s. p. in 1654.
V. David, of Gordonstown in Galloway, father of Nathaniel, 4th Gordon of Carleton.

John Gordon, of Earlston, d. in 1628, and was s. by his son,

ALEXANDER, 2nd Gordon of Earlston, M.P.; b. 1587; who sat in the Scottish parliament for the co. of Kirkcudbright. He was a stanch royalist, yet one who attracted particularly the notice of CHARLES I., for the undaunted courage with which, in his place, he maintained that the wearing the Scottish Crown involved no right (as in England) to the headship of the Church of Scotland, and reminded his Majesty of the act called the Confession of Faith. His whole line of conduct procured for him the sobriquet of "The Earl of Earlston," a title CHARLES I. had once jocularly bestowed upon him in a conversation with Lord Galloway, Earlston's kinsman. An offer of a Baronetcy was made to Earlston, but declined. He m. 4 Jan. 1612, Elizabeth, dau. of John, 2nd Gordon of Pennynghame (the grandfather of Alexander, 5th Viscount Kenmure) by which lady he had,

I. John, younger of Earlston; b. 1613; m. Jean, 3rd dau. of David Boswell of Auchinleck; and d. v. p. 29 Oct. 1645, without leaving issue.
II. William, 3rd Gordon of Earlston.
III. Robert, d. unm. in 1654.
I. Margaret, m. in 1638 to Thomas Hay, of Arieland.

Alexander Gordon, of Earlston, d. in Nov. 1653, and was s. by his son,

WILLIAM, 3rd Gordon of Earlston, b. 1614, who, while a 2nd son, entered the university, and took his degree; but on the death of his elder brother, entered the army. He felt, like his father and his countrymen in general, great resentment at the execution of CHARLES I.; he upheld the right of CHARLES II. to the Scottish throne; he gloried in the placing of that crown on his Majesty's brow at Scone in 1651, and he joined in those movements that ultimately led to his restoration to the English crown, in 1660. Earlston m. 26 Nov. 1648, Mary, 2nd dau. of Sir John Hope, Lord Craighall, by whom (who survived till 1696) he had issue,

I. ALEXANDER GORDON (Sir), of Earlston, 2nd baronet.
II. WILLIAM GORDON (Sir), of Afton, the 1st baronet.
III. John, 3rd Gordon of Carleton.
I. Margaret; m. in 1682, Sir James Holborn, of Menstrie.

William Gordon of Earlston was slain at Bothwell Bridge, 22 June, 1679; and was s. in his estate by his eldest son, Alexander, afterwards SIR ALEXANDER, the 2nd baronet. The 2nd son,

I. SIR WILLIAM GORDON, of Afton, Bart., b. 1654, sought at first his fortune abroad. He joined in 1670 the army of Frederick, the great Duke of Brandenburgh, and was for fifteen years engaged in constant active military service. Subsequently joining in the projected descent of Monmouth and Argyle, he landed on the west coast of Scotland with the latter, 27 May, 1685, while Monmouth landed on the south of England. Sir William made his escape after the failure of these expeditions, and rejoined the Prussian army. He then formed part of the Prince of Orange's more successful expedition, landing at Torbay with that prince, 5 Nov. 1688. Sir William was again actively in the field when WILLIAM III. was "with heroic constancy contending against the superior forces of France," so unremittingly, indeed, that three days after his marriage he was called to embark for Flanders, to take the field with his regiment (the 25th); the French king having laid siege to Namur. He fought again at Steinkirk in July, 1692, and remained on the Continent till 1698, being in all King WILLIAM's battles, down to the peace of Ryswick in 1697, and attaining the rank of lieut.-col. He was frequently wounded: two of his wounds being gun-shot, obliged him at length to retire, in some measure, from active life; and he was granted for them, pensions to the value of £182 a-year. He was, besides, allowed to retain the value of a company in his own regiment, made Governor of Fort William, in Scotland, and honoured, 9 July, 1706, with a Scotch baronetcy, with remainder thereof, failing heirs of his own body, to his brother Alexander, and the heirs of his body. Sir William m. 26 Feb. 1692, Mary, dau. of Sir George Campbell, of Cessnock, but by this lady (who survived him till 1733) he had no issue; and while her ladyship's estates went to her sister the Countess of Marchmont, the title of baronet, and his own estate of Afton, devolved, at his death, in Dec. 1718, on his brother.

II. SIR ALEXANDER GORDON, of Earlston, b. 1650. This gentleman's name is conspicuous in Scottish history. He escaped to Holland after the battle of Bothwell Bridge; and in his absence was (19 Feb 1681) declared guilty of treason, and adjudged to suffer death when taken; while forfeiture of his estates was decreed. He was sometime afterwards captured on board ship, and on 21 Aug. 1683 ordered to be beheaded in virtue of the old sentence. But as there was a wish to put some questions to him, the execution was deferred, and he was detained a close prisoner successively in the Castle of Edinburgh, on the Bass Rock, and in Blackness Castle, till 5 Jan. 1689, when the Revolution released him. He m. 1st, 16 Nov. 1676, Janet (b. 1653), eldest dau. of Sir Thomas Hamilton, of Preston, Knt., and by her (who d. 26 Feb. 1696) he had, with others who died before attaining their majority,

I. THOMAS (Sir), 3rd baronet.
II. Robert, b. 1688; m. 1715, the widow of Robert French Esq. and d. 1750, having had issue by her, an only child, Janet.

Lineage.

MAURICE, Lord of Prendergast, in Pembrokeshire, "a righte valiaunte captain," says Holinshed, was one of the Norman knights who united with Strongbow, Earl of Pembroke, in the invasion of Ireland. He landed in May, 1169, at the head of ten knights and two hundred archers, took a prominent part in the successful war which followed, and obtained an ample share of the conquered lands. In 1177, he gave his castle of Prendergast, in Wales, to the knights of St. John of Jerusalem; and eventually joining that order, was prior of Kilmainham at his death in 1205. From Gerald, his youngest son, descended the Prendergasts of Mayo, whose Irish title of MacMaurice gave name to the barony of Clanmorres, and of which family Lord Oranmore represents the Castle Macgarret branch, whilst his eldest son,

PHILIP DE PRENDERGAST, was summoned as a baron in 1206, 1207, and 1221. He m. Maude, dau. and heir of Robert de Quincy, with whom he acquired the town of Enniscorthy and constableship of Leinster. He d. 1226, leaving issue, GERALD, his heir; WILLIAM, of whom hereafter; and David, who was in the hands of his kinsman Sayer de Quincy, earl of Winchester, as a hostage for the loyalty of the Earl of Pembroke during the

Barons' War, but was released by royal writ signed at Runnymede, 12 June, 1215, during the conferences with the barons, which resulted in the grant of Magna Charta The eldest son,

WILLIAM DE PRENDERGAST, younger son of Philip, who obtained the lordship of Newcastle, co. Tipperary, from Jeffrey de Marisco, circa 1230, in exchange for other lands. By his wife Alianore, who appears to have been co-heir of William de Bermingham; he had issue, John and JEFFREY, of whom the former d. s. p. in 1275, when his brother,

JEFFREY DE PRENDERGAST, s. to Newcastle. Richard, Lord Slane, however, contested his right thereto; and Piers de Bermingham seized his castle of Mullough, which he recovered at law in 1276, but it was burnt by Lord Slane in the following year. He was summoned to the parliament of 1281, and fined one hundred shillings for being absent. His eldest son,

SIR PHILIP DE PRENDERGAST was involved in further litigation with Lord Slane. He d. 1303, leaving three sons, JEFFREY, his heir; MAURICE, whose son JOHN, though blind, eventually inherited Newcastle, and was ancestor to Viscount Gort; and Sir Philip, of Drangan, co. Tipperary. The eldest son,

Family of Vereker.

JOHN VEREKER, a native of the Low Countries, belonging to a family of considerable antiquity, in the province of Brabant, having entered the military service of CHARLES I., was one of those gallant gentlemen afterwards styled the "49 officers," who were deprived of their commissions by Cromwell for their royalist sentiments; "a body made up," said Lord Orrery, the framer of the Act of Settlement, "either of the first English army, or such constant subjects of his Majesty's interest in England, who, after the ruin of their hopes there, went over into Ireland, preferring the hazard of their lives once more before the servitude of their country." To this gallant soldier the GRACES trace their foundation. Raymond Le Gros had two sons,

WILLIAM, his heir.

The 2nd son,

About the end of the 17th century, he acquired the estate of Monymusk, and fixed his residence there. In 1705, he was raised to the dignity of a Baronet of Nova Scotia by Queen ANNE; and 17 May, 1720, he received a special warrant, under the hand of his Majesty GEORGE I., granting him the unusual armorial addition of a bordure ermine, as a testimony of his sovereign's favour, and a memorial of his judicial eminence; together with two angels as supporters, the motto "Suum cuique," on a scroll above, and the motto "Jehovah Jireh," on a scroll below—the only instance in Scottish heraldry of a Hebrew motto. He early foresaw the important advantages that would accrue to Scotland from a union with England; and to this great measure he gave his zealous and influential support. He was endued with great mental qualities. Exalted piety, inflexible integrity, and unbounded benevolence, shone in every action of his life; and among his many generous acts he bequeathed a sum of money to build and endow a school in the northern part of the parish of Monymusk, which was executed some years ago, is now in full operation, and is attended by highly beneficial consequences to all classes, especially to the children of the indigent, who receive a free education. GUINNESS.

GUINNESS, SIR ARTHUR-EDWARD, Bart. of Ashford, co. Galway, M.A., J.P., D.L., M.P. for the city of Dublin, b. 1 Nov. 1840; educated at Eton and Trin. Coll. Dublin; s. his father as 2nd bart., 19 May, 1868, m. 16 Feb. 1871, Lady Olivia-Charlotte, dau. of the Earl of Bantry.

Lineage.

The family of GUINNESS claims descent from the ancient and eminent house of Magennis, in which formerly vested the Viscounty of Iveagh. Several members of the Magennis family lie interred in the churchyard of St. Catherine's, Dublin. and in the parish register, the transition of the name from Magennis to McGuinness, or Guinness, is clearly traceable. The first who bore the name, as at present spelt, was

RICHARD GUINNESS, Esq. of Celbridge, in the co. of Kildare, b. about the year 1680. He m. Elizabeth, dau. of Wm. Read, Esq. of Hutton Read, co. Kildare, and by her (who was b. in 1698, and d. 28 Aug. 1742) had, with other issue, his eldest son and heir.

ARTHUR GUINNESS, Esq. of Beaumont, co. Dublin, b. 1725, who m. 1761, Olivia, dau. and co-heir of William Whitmore, Esq. of Dublin, by Mary, his wife. dau. of John Grattan, Esq. of Clonmeen, co. Kildare, and Martha Mason, his wife, who was descended through the families of Harris, Petley, Grent, Davers, Penshurst, and Bolney, from the marriage of John Beke, of Micheldever with Agnes Archemer, whose mother was one of the co-heirs of WILLIAM OF WYKEHAM, BISHOP OF WINCHESTER, FOUNDER OF THE COLLEGE OF WINCHESTER, AND OF NEW COLLEGE, OXFORD. By this descent the present Sir Arthur Guinness is of Founder's kin at Winchester and New College. The pedigree is duly registered in Ulster's office. He d. 1803. The second son of Arthur Guinness, of Beaumont, by Olivia Whitmore, his wife,

ARTHUR GUINNESS, Esq. of Beaumont, co. Dublin, J.P. and D.L., b. 12 March, 1768, held for many years, honoured and respected by all classes of his fellow-citizens, the foremost place amongst the merchants of his native city of Dublin. His connection with the mercantile community extended over more than sixty years, and his public services during that long period may be estimated by the universal regret of the whole country at his decease. He m. Anne, eldest dau. and co-heiress of Benjamin Lee, Esq. of Merrion, co. Dublin (of a branch of the English family of Lee, Earls of Lichfield), by Susanna, his wife, niece of Charles Smyth, Esq., M.P., father of the 1st Viscount Gort, and dau. of the Rev. John Smyth, chancellor of the diocese of Connor, who d. 1781, son of Thomas Smyth, Bishop of Limerick, who d. 1725, by Dorothea Burgh, his wife, who was dau. of Rev. Ulysses Burgh, Bishop of Ardagh, who d. 1692, by Mary, his wife, dau. of Colonel William Kingsmill, of Ballyowen, M.P. for Mallow, son of Wm. Kingsmill, Esq., by his marriage with Dorothy St. Leger, dau. of Sir Warham St. Leger, M.P., President of Munster, by the Hon. Ursula Nevill, his wife, dau. of George, 3rd Lord Abergavenny. By this marriage Sir Arthur Guinness is descended, through the noble houses of Stafford, Percy, and Mortimer, from EDWARD III., King of England. The pedigree is duly registered in Ulster's office. Mr. Guinness had issue,

I. WILLIAM SMYTH-LEE-GRATTAN-GUINNESS, of Beaumont and Park Annesley, m. 9 March, 1826, Susan-Jane, only child of Benjamin Guinness, Esq. of Dublin, and d. 21 March, 1864, leaving issue.
II. Arthur-Lee, of Stillorgan House, co. Dublin, d. unm. 1862.
III. BENJAMIN-LEE, created a Baronet.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the great house of Hamilton, springing from

THOMAS HAMILTON, of Orchartfield, who acquired, in 1522, from John, Earl of Lennox, the Barony of Bathgate, co. Linlithgow; and in 1524 purchased the lands of Ballincrieff, in the same shire. He was s. by his son,

THOMAS HAMILTON, who fell at the battle of Pinkie, 10 Sept. 1547, leaving two sons,

THOMAS.
John, a secular priest, who, leaving Scotland on account of his religion, took up his abode at Paris in 1573, and was appointed professor of philosophy in the college of Navarre. He became tutor to the Cardinal de Bourbon, in 1576; and to Francis de Joyeuse, afterwards a cardinal, in 1578; and was chosen rector of the university of Paris, in 1584. He was a zealous partizan of the League, and one of the council who offered the crown to PHILIP II. of Spain, in 1591. When HENRY IV. entered Paris, in 1594, Hamilton was arrested, but had liberty soon after to depart from Paris. He retired to Brussels, and in 1601, ventured to revisit his native country, after an absence of nearly thirty years. He found a temporary asylum at the castle of Lord Ogilvie; but in 1609, was arrested by a party of life-guards, and committed to the Tower of London, where he died.

The elder son,

SIR THOMAS HAMILTON, of Priestfield, had a charter of Balbyn, Drumcairn, and Priestfield, in the year 1597. He was admitted a lord of Session in 1607, but resigned his seat on the bench to his 2nd son, the next year. Sir Thomas m. Elizabeth, dau. of James Heriot, of Trabroun, and had issue (besides daus.),

The eldest son,

SIR THOMAS HAMILTON, of Priestfield, b. in 1563, studied the law in France, was admitted advocate in 1587, and soon distinguishing himself at the bar, was appointed a lord of Session in 1592, by the title of Lord Drumcairn. He was subsequently one of the commissioners of the Treasury of Exchequer called Octavians, and king's advocate. In 1604, he was nominated a commissioner by parliament to treat of a union with England. In 1612, he was received lord-clerk-register of Scotland; and in the same year succeeded Sir Alexander Hay, as secretary of state. He was elevated to the peerage, 30 Nov. 1613, as Lord Binning and Byres, was appointed lord-president of the Court of Session in 1616, and created Earl of Melrose, 20 March, 1619. His lordship, with the approbation of the crown, after the death of Sir John Ramsay, Viscount Haddington, changed the title of Earl of Melrose for that of EARL OF HADDINGTON, but with the precedence of the original patent. This nobleman acquired by the lucrative offices he enjoyed, one of the largest fortunes of his time, which was considerably augmented by the discovery of valuable mines upon his estates. He d. in 1637, and was s. by his elder son,

To prevent the junction of the two earldoms, it was contracted, however, at the period of her ladyship's nuptials with the Earl of Haddington, that the Earldom of Rothes should be inherited by the eldest son of the marriage, and the Earldom of Haddington by the second; in consequence of which contract, Lord Haddington was s. at his demise, in 1685, by his 2nd son,

HAMILTON.

HAMILTON, DUKE OF (Sir William-Alexander-Louis-Stephen Douglas-Hamilton, K.T.); Marquess of Douglas and Clydesdale, Earl of Angus, Arran, and Lanark; Lord Hamilton, Avon, Polmont, Mackanshire, Innerdale, Abernethy, and Jedburgh Forest, in the peerage of Scotland; DUKE OF BRANDON, co. Suffolk, and Baron of Dutton, co. Chester, in the peerage of England; PREMIER PEER OF SCOTLAND, His Grace claims to be Duke of Châtellerault under an Imperial decree of Napoleon III., dated 20 April 1864. The Duke of Abercorn, however, as Heir Male of the House of Hamilton, impugns the validity of this decree, as not creating a dignity but as purporting to confirm a right not previously existing (see ABERCORN, D.). The Duke of Hamilton is Hereditary Keeper of Holyrood House; late col., now hon. col. of the royal Lanarkshire militia; knight-marischal of Scotland. His Grace was b. 12 March, 1845; s. his father, as 12th Duke of Hamilton and 9th Duke of Brandon, 15 July, 1863., and m. 10 Dec. 1873, Lady Mary Montagu, eldest dau. of the Duke of Manchester.

Lineage.

The race of Douglas is amongst the noblest in Europe, whether we consider a long line of illustrious ancestors, a princely inheritance, a series of royal and noble alliances during seven centuries, or a well-earned renown for indomitable warlike prowess. The origin of this great house is lost amid the mists of antiquity; and we will not here attempt to weigh the conflicting claims of an indigenous and a foreign descent, both of which have been assigned to "The Douglas." Suffice it to say that he is found a chief of baronial rank, possessing large estates in Lanarkshire, in the days of WILLIAM THE LION and the two last ALEXANDERS; and that he rapidly rose to eminence during the stirring times of EDWARD I. and ROBERT BRUCE. ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS, of Douglas, lived in the reign of King ALEXANDER II., and d. in 1240. He m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Crawford, of Crawford, by whom he had, I. William, his successor; II. Andrew, ancestor of a very great branch of the house of Douglas, viz., Dalkeith. This race, after existing for several generations in great splendour as Barons of Dalkeith, were raised to the dignity of Earls of Morton. The main line ended on the death of James, 3rd Earl of Morton, in 1553. In 1588, Sir William Douglas, of Lochlevan, the descendant of a remote branch of the Dalkeith family, was called to the succession of the earldom, and is ancestor of the present EARL OF MORTON. There are, however, families of the name of Douglas which are more directly descended from the great house of Dalkeith.

WILLIAM DOUGLAS, of Douglas, the eldest son, flourished in the reigns of ALEXANDERS II. and III., and d. in 1276, leaving two sons, Hugh, his heir, who d. without issue; and

WILLIAM DOUGLAS, of Douglas. He joined Wallace in 1299, but was obliged to make submission to King EDWARD I., and being sent to England, d. in the castle of York in 1302. By a dau. of William de Keith he had three sons, I. JAMES; II. Hugh, who had no succession; III. Archibald. The eldest son,

JAMES DOUGLAS, of Douglas, is known in history as "the Good Sir James," and in romance as the flower of chivalry. His personal history is that of Scotland during the time in which he lived. He was the friend and brother in arms of King ROBERT BRUCE; and after that monarch's death, he set out on a crusade with the intention of depositing BRUCE'S heart in the Holy Sepulchre at Jerusalem. He was, however, killed in battle by the Saracens, on the frontiers of Andalusia, in 1330. Sir James was never married. He had two natural sons, who were highly distinguished, viz., William Douglas, the Knight of Liddisdale, who left no issue: and Archibald the Grim, Lord of Galloway, who afterwards became 3rd Earl of Douglas.

ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS, brother of the Good Sir James, m. a dau. of Comyn of Badenoch, and had issue, William, and a dau., Eleanora, m. to Alexander Bruce, Earl of Carrick, and afterwards to James Sandilands, of Calder. Her descendant and representative is LORD TORPHICHEN.

WILLIAM DOUGLAS, of Douglas, s. in 1342, on the resignation of his uncle Hugh. He was the 1st EARL OF DOUGLAS. By Margaret, dau. of David, 12th Earl of Marr (and sister and heir of the 13th Earl), he had issue, James, and a dau., Isabel, who, on her brother's death, became Countess of Marr; she had no issue. The Earl of Douglas had another son, by Lady Margaret Stewart, dau. of Thomas, 2nd Earl of Angus (and sister and co-heir of the 3rd Earl), viz., George Douglas, who became Earl of Angus, and who also carried on the line of the great House of Douglas, and is ancestor to the DUKE OF HAMILTON.

JAMES DOUGLAS, 2nd Earl of Douglas and Earl of Marr, s. to the title before 1384. He m. the Princess Margaret, dau. of King ROBERT II., by whom he had no surviving issue. He had two natural sons, William Douglas, ancestor to the DUKES and MARQUESSES OF QUEENSBERRY; and Archibald Douglas, ancestor to DOUGLAS OF CAVERS. On the death of James, 2nd Earl of Douglas, in 1388, the title devolved on a natural son of the Good Sir James, viz.,

ARCHIBALD the Grim, Lord of Galloway, who became 3rd Earl of Douglas. He was one of the most powerful men in Scotland. By Joanna his wife, dau. and heir of Thomas Moray, of Bothwell, he had issue, I. Archibald, 4th Earl of Douglas; II. James, 7th Earl of Douglas; and a dau., Marjory, m. in 1400, to David, Duke of Rothsay, Prince of Scotland. He had also a natural son, William Douglas, Lord of Nithesdale, a renowned warrior, who m. the Princess Egidia, dau. of King ROBERT II., and had one dau., Egidia, heiress of Nithesdale, wife of Henry St. Clair, 2nd Earl of Orkney.

ARCHIBALD, 4th Earl of Douglas, s. in 1401. In 1424, he obtained the dukedom of Touraine from CHARLES VII., King of France, and was soon after slain at the battle of Verneuil. He m. the Princess Margaret, dau. of King ROBERT III., by whom he had a son, Archibald, 5th Earl of Douglas and 2nd Duke of Touraine, and a dau., Elizabeth, wife, 1st, of John Stewart, Earl of Buchan, constable of France, and 2ndly, of William St. Clair, 3rd Earl of Orkney.

ARCHIBALD, 5th Earl of Douglas, 2nd Duke of Touraine, in his father's lifetime was Earl of Wigton and Count of Longueville. He distinguished himself at the battle of Baugé, in 1421, and was one of the ambassadors to England to adjust the ransom of King JAMES I. In 1438, he was lieutenant-general of the realm of Scotland, and d. in 1439. He m. 1st, Matilda Lindsay, dau. of David, Earl of Crawford, without issue; and 2ndly, Euphemia, dau. of Sir Patrick Graham and Euphemia, Countess of Stratherne, dau. and heir of Prince David, Earl of Stratherne, son of King ROBERT II. By her (who m. in 1440, 2ndly, James, 1st Lord Hamilton) he had issue, I. WILLIAM, his heir; II. David, executed along with his brother in 1440; I. Margaret, the Fair Maid of Galloway, m. 1st, in 1444, her cousin, William, 8th Earl of Douglas; and 2ndly, in 1452, her brother-in-law, the 9th Earl of Douglas; and 3rdly, John Stewart, Earl of Athol, uterine brother of King JAMES II., by whom she had issue, 1 Janet, wife of Alexander, 3rd Earl of Huntly; 2 Catherine, wife of the Lord Gray.

WILLIAM, 6th Earl of Douglas, 3rd Duke of Touraine, was inveigled into the Castle of Edinburgh, where he was arrested after a banquet, tried, and beheaded along with his brother in 1440 He was s. by his grand uncle,

JAMES, 7th Earl of Douglas, younger son of the 3rd Earl. He survived his nephew till 1443. He m. Lady Beatrix Sinclair, dau. of Henry Sinclair, 1st Earl of Orkney of that house, by whom, besides daus., he had issue, I. William; II. James; III. Archibald, Earl of Moray; IV. Hugh, Earl of Ormond; V. John, Lord of Balveny; VI. Henry, in holy orders.

WILLIAM, 8th Earl of Douglas, s. his father in 1443. He m. his cousin, Margaret Douglas, heiress of Galloway, and restored his family to its original power. In Feb. 1451-2, he was invited to visit King JAMES II., in Stirling Castle, by whose hand he was assassinated. Leaving no issue, he was s. by his brother, JAMES, 9th Earl of Douglas. In his time the ruin of the house of Douglas was accomplished. He rebelled against the Scottish king, and entered into treasonable correspondence with the house of York. He and his brothers were attainted. The title of Douglas ceased to exist, and the earl became an exile and a pensioner of the English crown. He at length d. a Monk, in the Abbey of Lindores, in 1488. He left no issue, and with him ended the powerful line of Earls of Douglas.

We must now return to the branch of Angus, which, on the extinction of the Earls of Douglas, succeeded to a great portion of their power.

GEORGE DOUGLAS, only son of William, 1st Earl of Douglas, by Margaret Stewart, in her own right Countess of Angus, on the death of her brother, obtained, in 1389, a grant of the earldom of his mother's family. He m. in 1397, the Princess Mary, dau. of King ROBERT III., who afterwards m. 2ndly, Sir James Kennedy, 3rdly, Sir William Graham, of Kincardine, and 4thly, Sir William Edmonstone, of Duntreath. By her he had, I. William, 2nd Earl of Angus; II. George, 4th Earl of Angus. Dying in 1402, he was s. by

WILLIAM, 2nd Earl of Angus, who d. in 1437, leaving, by Margaret, dau. of Sir William Hay, of Yester, a son,

JAMES, 3rd Earl of Angus. He m. Princess Joanna, dau. of King JAMES I., and having no issue by her, who afterwards m. James Douglas, Earl of Morton, he was s. by his uncle,

GEORGE, 4th Earl of Angus. In his time the rebellion and ruin of the house of Douglas took place, and Angus did not fail to rise on their fall. In 1457, he had a grant of the forfeited Lordship of Douglas. When HENRY VI. took refuge in Scotland, Angus offered him substantial aid, and was promised an English dukedom. He m. Isabel, dau. of Sir Andrew Sibbald, of Balgonie. Besides numerous female issue, he had a son and heir,

ARCHIBALD, 5th Earl of Angus, commonly called "The Great Earl," and "Bell the Cat." He was the most powerful and talented of the Scottish nobles, and was equally feared and respected by prince and people. He d. in 1514, in the Abbey of Whithorn. He m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Robert, Lord Boyd, Great Chamberlain of Scotland, by whom he had issue, besides daus., I. George, Master of Angus; II. Sir William, of Glenbervie, of whom hereafter; III. Gavin, Bishop of Dunkeld, a distinguished man of letters. He m. 2ndly, Catherine, dau. of Sir William Stirling, of Kier, by whom he had a son, Sir Archibald, of Kilspindie, who had a son of his own name. George, Master of Angus, the eldest son, fell at the battle of Flodden, in 1513. By Elizabeth, dau. of John, 1st Lord Drummond, he had issue, besides daus., I. Archibald, his grandfather's heir; II. Sir George Douglas, of Pittendreich, of whom hereafter; III. William, Abbot of Holyrood House.

ARCHIBALD, 6th Earl of Angus, a very powerful nobleman, s. his grandfather in 1514, and in the same year, he m. the Princess Margaret of England, Queen Dowager of JAMES IV., King of Scotland, by whom he had an only child, Margaret, wife of Matthew, 4th Earl of Lennox, by whom she had, Henry, Lord Darnley, King Consort of Scotland, father of JAMES I., King of Great Britain, who was heir of line of the Angus family. He m. again, 1543, Margaret, dau. of Robert, 5th Lord Maxwell, by whom he had no surviving issue. He d. in 1556, and was s. by his nephew, son of his brother,

SIR GEORGE DOUGLAS, of Pittendreich. By Margaret Douglas, heiress of Pittendreich, Sir George had issue, I. David, 7th Earl of Angus; II. James Douglas, who m. Elizabeth, youngest dau. of James Douglas, 3rd Earl of Morton. He became Earl of Morton, and Regent of Scotland, and he was beheaded in 1581, without issue.

DAVID, 7th Earl of Angus, s. his uncle in 1556, and d. 1558. He m. Margaret, dau. of Sir John Hamilton, of Clydesdale, natural son of James, 1st Earl of Arran. By her he had issue, I. ARCHIBALD, his heir; I. Margaret, wife, 1st, of Sir Walter Scott, of Buccleuch, and 2ndly, of Francis Stewart, Earl of Bothwell; II. Elizabeth, wife, 1st, of John, 7th Lord Maxwell, and 2ndly, of Sir Alexander Stewart, of Garlies.

ARCHIBALD, 8th Earl of Angus, s. his father in 1558, and was placed under the guardianship of his uncle, the Earl of Morton. In 1585, he s. to the Earldom of Morton, which had been held by his uncle, the Regent, beheaded in 1581. He m. 1st, a dau. of the regent, Earl of Marr; 2ndly, a dau. of the 4th Earl of Rothes; 3rdly, a dau. of John, 10th Lord Glamis, by whom he had a dau., who d. young. The earl d. in 1588. The earldom of Morton then devolved on Douglas of Lochleven, a remote cadet of the house of Dalkeith, though other families existed in the more direct line of succession, and the earldom of Angus devolved on Sir William Douglas, of Glenbervie, descended from Sir William Douglas, 2nd son of Archibald, 5th Earl of Angus. By Elizabeth Auchinleck, heiress of Glenbervie, he had

SIR ARCHIBALD DOUGLAS, of Glenbervie. He m. 1st, Agnes Keith, dau of William, 4th Earl Marèschal, by whom he had a son, William. He m. 2ndly, Mary, dau. of Sir Alexander Irvine, of Drum, by whom he had issue, I. James Douglas, minister of Glenbervie. His grandson, Robert Douglas, was bishop of Dunblane in 1684, and d. 1716. William, his heir. II. Sir Robert Douglas, of Glenbervie, whose eldest son, Sir Robert Douglas, was created a Baronet of Nova Scotia in 1625. John, of Barras. He is said to have had two other sons. The earl d. in 1591, and was s. by

WILLIAM, his heir. II. James, created in 1641, Lord Mordington. His male line is extinct. He is represented as heir of line by the BARONESS SEMPILL. III. Sir Francis of Sandilands, who had no issue. The eldest son,

WILLIAM, 11th Earl of Angus, lived in great magnificence at the Castle of Douglas, and was, by CHARLES I., created Marquess of Douglas, in 1633. He. d. in 1660. He m. 1st, Margaret Hamilton, dau. of Claud, Lord Paisley, and sister to the 1st Earl of Abercorn, by whom he had issue,

I. ARCHIBALD, Earl of Angus, who predeceased his father; created by King CHARLES II. Earl of Ormond. He m. 1st, Anne, dau. of Esme Stuart, 3rd Duke of Lennox, by whom he had a son, James, 2nd Marquis of Douglas. He m. 2ndly, Jean, dau. of David, 2nd Earl of Wemyss, by whom he had a dau., Margaret, wife of Alexander, 1st Viscount Kingston, and a son, Archibald Douglas, who s. his father in the earldom of Ormond, but in 1661, obtained a new patent creating him EARL OF FORFAR. ARCHIBALD, 3rd Marquis of Douglas, who, in 1703, was created DUKE of DOUGLAS. He m. in 1758, Margaret, dau. of James Douglas, of Mains, by whom he had no issue; and dying in 1761, his dukedom became extinct. The marquessate of Douglas and the earldom of Angus devolved on the Duke of Hamilton, the heir male. The great estates of the Douglas family became the subject of litigation between the Duke of Hamilton and Mr. Stewart, the nephew of the Duke of Douglas. This was The Douglas Cause, a celebrated lawsuit, which excited the interest of Europe. The point at issue was the filiation of Archibald Stewart, whose claim to be the son of Lady Jane Douglas and Sir John Stewart was disputed by the Duke of Hamilton. But after an unfavourable decision in the Scottish law courts, a final decision in his favour was given by the House of Lords 1771.

ARCHIBALD-JAMES-EDWARD STEWART-DOUGLAS, of Douglas, thus legally acknowledged to be heir of the Douglas family in the female line, was created a British peer as BARON DOUGLAS, of Douglas Castle, in 1790. * A cadet branch of the house of Hamilton settled in the seventeenth century in Sweden, viz., that of HAMILTON, COUNT HAMILTON, and HAMILTON, BARON HAMILTON, of Sweden. This family is one of the most widely-spread and powerful branches of the house of Hamilton, and during the two centuries of its establishment in Sweden, it has risen to the highest honours, contracted the noblest alliances, and acquired immense wealth. Many of its members have been field-marshals, knights of the Seraphim, and presidents of the Diet, while others have held distinguished posts at court, and in the diplomatic and military service. The estates and lordships belonging to the different branches of the family extend over many of the provinces of Sweden, and, taken altogether, are more important than those of any other family in that kingdom.

Their immediate ancestor was MALCOLM HAMILTON, Archbishop of Cashel, who was consecrated in 1623, and died in 1629. He had issue by his first wife, Mary, dau. of Robert Wilkie, of Sachtonhill,

I. ARCHIBALD, of Ballygally and Moyner, in co. Tyrone, who by his wife, the Hon Anne Balfour, dau. of James, Lord Glenawley, had no issue.

II. HUGH, who in 1624 entered the Swedish service. He was in 1654, created Baron Hamilton de Deserf, in Sweden; and in 1660, Lord Glenawly, in Ireland. By his second wife, Susannah, dau. of Sir William Balfour, of Pitcullo, he had

1 William, 2nd Lord Glenawly, who had no issue; and two daus., 1 ARABELLA-SUSAN, wife of Sir John Magill, Bart.; 2 NICOLA-SOPHIA, wife, 1st, of Sir Tristram Beresford, and, by him, mother of Marcus, 1st Earl of Tyrone; wife, 2ndly, of Lieut.-Gen. Richard Gorges.

III. JOHN, of whom hereafter.

Lineage.

This is a branch of the illustrous house of Hamilton, of which the Duke of Abercorn is the Chief. It springs from Alexander de Hamilton, 2nd son of Sir James de Hamilton, Lord of Cadzow, by Janet, dau. of Sir Alexander Livingstone, of Callendar, and next brother of the first Lord Hamilton, who espoused the Princess Mary of Scotland. He had a charter in 1449, from Alexander, Earl of Crawford, wherein he was styled "Alexander de Hamilton, of Quhitecamp, afterwards Silvertonhill." In a charter of settlement of the Hamilton estates, granted to his brother, the first Lord Hamilton, of date 23rd October, 1455, this Alexander was called next in succession after his brother's family. He left two sons,

James, his heir.
William, ancestor of the Hamiltons of Westport.

The elder son,

James Hamilton, of Silvertonhill, in a charter of settlement of the Hamilton estates, granted to his cousin-german James, 1st Earl of Arran, of date 16th June, 1512-13, was placed very near in the family succession. He m. a dau. of the family of Douglas, with whom he got the lands of Newton, in the barony of Drumsarguard, and by whom he had issue, John, his heir; and a dau., m. to James Livingstone, ancestor of Viscount Teviot. He was s. by his son,

John Hamilton, designed of Newton, living in 1531. He obtained from his cousin, the Earl of Arran, a grant of the remaining portion of the lands of Silvertonhill. He m. a dau. of Sir John Somerville, of Camnethan, and d. in 1535. His son and heir, Andrew, predeceased him, leaving two sons, Andrew and Alexander. He was s. by his grandson,

Andrew Hamilton, of Silvertonhill (son and heir of James Hamilton), living in 1541. He m. a dau. of James Hamilton, of Stanehouse, and d. in the beginning of the reign of Queen Mary, leaving issue an infant son,

Andrew Hamilton, of Silvertonhill, who was carefully educated under the guardianship of his uncle, Alexander. He m. Elspeth, a dau. of Baillie of Carfin, by whom he had issue several children, but only one son survived him,

Francis Hamilton, of Silvertonhill, a very enthusiastic, wrong-headed man. He fancied himself bewitched by Dame Isabel Boyd, Lady Blair, which appears by several extravagant petitions to parliament from him in 1641. He d. not long after this, having greatly squandered away the family estate; and as he never was married, this branch of the family expired, and the representation devolved on the descendants of his grand-uncle, Alexander; which

Alexander Hamilton, tutor of Silvertonhill, got from his father the lands of Goslingtown, which sometime continued to be the title of his family. He m. Catherine Hamilton, by whom he had issue,

Sir Andrew Hamilton, of Goslingtown. This gentleman was a faithful and loyal subject of Queen Mary, who conferred on him the honour of knighthood. He was at the battle of Langside, for which he was attainted, but had his possessions restored to him by the treaty of Perth, in 1572. He d. in 1592, and was s. by his son,

Sir Robert Hamilton, of Goslingtown, who m. Elizabeth, dau. and sole heir of Sir William Baillie, of Provan, lord-president of the Court of Session, by whom he got a great accession to his estate, and d. in 1642, leaving, with a dau. m. to Sir John Somerville, of Camnethan, 1st, EDWARD, his heir; and 2nd, James Hamilton, who d. in 1655. His son James was of Newton, and was ancestor to the family of HAMILTON of Newton, now represented by the REV. JOHN HAMILTON GRAY. James Hamilton, of Newton, had a son, Thomas, who carried on the line of his family; and a dau., Elizabeth, wife of John Gray, of Dalmarnock and Carntyne, b. 1688, and d. in 1768. Her grandson, Robert Gray, of Carntyne, became, in 1823, representative of the HAMILTONS of Newton, on the extinction of the direct line. He m. Mary-Anne, dau. of Gabriel Hamilton, of Westburn, and Agnes Dundas, heiress of Duddingston, granddau. of the 17th Earl of Crawford and Lindsay, and grand-niece of the Duke of Hamilton. By her he had an only son, the REV. JOHN HAMILTON GRAY, of Carntyne, co. Lanark, rector of Walton-le-Wold, co. Leicester, and rural dean. He s. his father in 1833. He is vicar of Bolsover, in the county of Derby. He m. in 1829, Elizabeth-Caroline, eldest dau. of James-Raymond Johnstone, Esq., of Alva, in the county of Clackmannan, by Mary Cholmeley, sister of Sir Montague Cholmeley, Bart., of Easton, in the county of Lincoln. By her he has an only dau., Caroline-Maria-Agnes-Robina-Hamilton Gray, b. 26 June, 1833, and m. 25 Aug. 1852, to John-Anstruther Thomson, of Charleton, in the county of Fife, by whom she has a son, John-St.Clair-Anstruther Thomson, b. 4 June, 1853, and other issue. Sir Robert Hamilton, of Goslingtown, was s. by his elder son,

EDWARD HAMILTON, designed first of Balgray, afterwards of Silvertonhill. He d. in 1649, and was s by his son,

I. SIR ROBERT HAMILTON, of Silvertonhill, a steady loyalist, and in great favour with CHARLES I., who made him a Baronet of Nova Scotia about the year 1646. He m. the Hon. Anne Hamilton, 2nd dau. of John, 1st Lord Belhaven, by whom he had, with other issue, his successor,

II. SIR ROBERT, of Silvertonhill, who embraced a military life, and rose to the rank of colonel in the army; dying at Fort William, in 1708, he was s. by his eldest surviving son,

III. SIR JOHN, who d. in 1748, leaving issue. The title came to his eldest son,

IV. SIR ROBERT. This gentleman having adopted the profession of arms, attained the rank of lieutenant-general, and was colonel of the 108th foot, a regiment reduced at the peace in 1763, when General Hamilton was appointed to the colonelcy of the 40th. In March, 1858, he became First Lord of the Admiralty, and resigned in June, 1859; he was reappointed in 1866, and was appointed Secretary of State for War in 1867; he retired from office in 1868. He was created a Baronet, July, 1846; made a Grand Cross of the Bath 30 June, 1859; and raised to the Peerage, 6 March, 1874, as Baron Hampton. His lordship is First Civil Service Commissioner.

Lineage.

The antiquity of this family is beyond dispute: it is manifest from the foundation of the monastery at Kenilworth that it flourished in the reign of HENRY I., and it appears to have assumed the surname from one of the Pakingtons, in Staffordshire, Warwickshire, or Leicestershire, for in each of those counties we meet with lordships so designated, the proprietors of which wrote themselves anciently De Pakington.*

ROBERT PAKINGTON, living in the reign of HENRY IV. was father of

JOHN PAKINGTON, recited in an office found before Robert Russel, escheator of the county of Warwick, 14 HENRY VI. He left a son of his own name,

JOHN PAKINGTON, Esq., who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Thomas Washbourne, Esq. of Stanford, in the county of Worcester, and had three sons, namely,

I. JOHN, of the Inner Temple, constituted chirographer of the Common Pleas in the 24th of HENRY VII., during life, and being learned in the law was elected, 11 HENRY VIII., Lent reader; and in the 20th of the same reign, treasurer of the society of the Inner Temple, in which year he had a grant from the king, "that he, the said John Pakington, for the time to come, shall have full liberty during his life, to wear his hat in his presence, and his successors, or of any other persons whatsoever, and not to be uncovered on any occasion or cause whatsoever, against his will and good liking; also that he shall not be appointed, called, or compelled to take the order of knighthood, or degree, state, or order of a baron of the Exchequer, sergeant-at-law, or any office or incumbrance thereto relating." In 1532, he was called to be sergeant-at-law, for which the king gave him a special discharge for taking the said degree, and having been appointed a justice of North Wales, was, in 1525, commissioned to conclude and compound all forfeitures, offences, fines, and sums of money due to the king or his father, HENRY VII. In 1542, he had a patent for justice of Brecknock, Glamorgan, and Radnor, in South Wales, during life having a grant of all the manors belonging to the monastery of Westwood, in the county of Worcester, and soon after received the honour of knighthood. The many other honours conferred upon him are too numerous to be recorded here. At the time of his death, 1560, he was seised of thirty-one manors, and of other lands that he had purchased of seventy different persons, as appears by a large book concerning his estate, which was preserved amongst the family testimonials. Sir John Pakington's wife was Anne, widow of Tychbourne, and of the family of Rolle.† She d. 22 Aug. 1563. His fortune was divided between his two younger brothers, Robert and Humphrey, and his daughters,

URSULA, m. to Sir John Scudamore, Knt.
BRIDGET, m. to Sir John Lyttleton, Knt. of Frankley.

II. ROBERT.
III. Humphrey, a merchant of London, who had the manor of Chaddesley Corbet settled upon him by his brother, Sir John, and left an only son,

John, of Harvington, in Worcestershire, who m. Elizabeth Newport, and had a son and heir,

Humphrey Pakington, Esq. of Chaddesley Corbet, who m. Abigail Sacheverell, and left two daus., his co-heirs,

1 Mary, m. to Sir John Yate, Bart.
2 Anne, m. to Sir Henry Audley, Knt.

The 2nd son,

ROBERT PAKINGTON, Esq., was one of the members of parliament for the city of London, temp. HENRY VIII., and was barbarously murdered in the street, in 1537. He m. Catherine, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Baldwin, lord chief justice of the Common Pleas, son of William Baldwin by Agnes, his wife, daughter of William Dormer, Esq. of Wycombe, Bucks (by this marriage with Baldwin the manors of Ailesbury and Dundridge, Bucks, with other considerable lands, came into the family), and had issue,

Thomas, his heir.
Elizabeth, m. to John Lane, Esq., and afterwards Alderman Sir Richard Mallory, Knt, of London.
Anne, m. to Richard Cupper, Esq. of Glympton, in the co. of Oxford.

* Pagington, afterwards Pakington, Staffordshire, within two miles of Tame, was held of the bishop, by Vetchel, in the 20th year of WILLIAM the Conqueror; in HENRY III's that, by Robert de Pakington; and in the 24th of EDWARD I., David de Pakington held it of the bishop by the fourth part of a knight's fee. Richard de Pakington m. one of the sisters and co-heirs of Robert de Kaily, Lord of Freseley, in Warwickshire, who lived temp. HENRY II., and the late baronets had in their possession two ancient deeds, without date, judged to be at least two centuries and a half old: one of Robert Wittington, clerk, signed and sealed in the presence of Peter Wyke, Hugh Pakington, and Alexander Abbetot, knights; the other, attested by Richard Spechell and Hugh Pakington, knights.

† Another authority states, that Sir John Pakington, Knt., m. Anne, dau. of Henry Dacres, late sheriff of London, and widow of Robert Fairthwayte, of London, merchant-taylor, and that she was buried at St. Buttolph's, 22nd August, 1563, but does not mention her as widow of Tychbourne; by her will, however, she bequeaths to her son, Nicholas Tychbourne, and his children, the greater part of her estate, plate, jewels, &c.

Margaret, m. 1st, to Benedict Lee, Esq. of Burston, co Bucks; and 2ndly, to Sir Thomas Scot, of Yorkshire.

The son and heir,

SIR THOMAS PAKINGTON, was in ward to the lord privy seal, in the 37th HENRY VIII., when Catharine, his mother, was found one of the co heirs of Sir John Baldwin (who d. 22 Dec. in the same year). He received the honour of knighthood from Queen MARY, and on the death of his grandfather, the said Sir John Baldwin, succeeded to a great estate. He was sheriff of Worcestershire, in the 3rd of ELIZABETH, and dying 2 June, 1571, at Bath-place, Holborn, was conveyed in great pomp to Ailesbury, the officers of the College of Arms attending, and buried in the parish church there. His wife, who survived him, and m. 2ndly, Thomas Tashmarsh, Esq., was the dau. of Sir Thomas Kitson, Knt. of Hengrave, in Suffolk, and by her he had surviving issue,

JOHN (Sir), his heir.
Mary, m. to Sir Walter Long, Knt. of Wraxall and Draycot, in Wiltshire, M.P. for that county.
Catherine, m. 1st, to John Davis, Esq., of the same co.; 2ndly, to Sir Jasper Moore; and 3rdly, to Sir — Mompesson of Teddington.
Margaret, m. to Thomas Litchfield, Esq.

He was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, K.B., one of the privy council, and an especial favourite of Queen ELIZABETH. The Queen first took notice of Sir John in her progress to Worcester, when she invited him to attend her court, where he lived at his own expense, in great splendour and reputation, with an equipage not inferior to some of the highest officers, although he had no greater honour than Knight of the Bath which was conferred upon him in the lifetime of his father. He was remarkable for his stature and comely person, and had distinguished himself so much by his manly exercises, that he was called "Lusty Pakington." Sir John Pakington m. the daughter of Humphry Smith, of Cheapside, Queen ELIZABETH's silkman, of an ancient family in Leicestershire. The lady was the widow of Benedict Barnham, Esq., an alderman of London, "who left her very rich, and that consideration, together with her youth and beauty, made it impossible for her to escape the addresses even of the greatest persons about the court; but Sir John was the only happy man who knew how to gain her, being recommended by his worthy friend, Mr. William Seabright, town-clerk of London, who had purchased the manor of Besford, in Worcestershire. This lady had by her first husband four daughters, who were very young when they lost their father, and therefore needed a faithful friend to manage and improve their fortunes, in which capacity Sir John acquitted himself so honourably, that they had ten thousand pounds each for portion, an immense sum in those days."* Sir John Pakington had issue, one son and two daus., viz.,

JOHN, his heir.
Anne, m. 1st, to Sir Humphrey Ferrers, Knt. of Tamworth, and 2ndly, to Philip, 1st Earl of Chesterfield.
Mary, m. to Sir Robert Brooke, of Nacton, in Suffolk, master of the ceremonies to King JAMES I.

This great man, who lived to see his children's children, departed this life at his house at Westwood, in the seventy-seventh year of his age, in January, 1625. His widow m. 3rdly, Lord Kilmorey, and 4thly, Thomas, Earl of Kelly. His son and heir,

I. SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, Bart. of Ailesbury, in the co. Bucks, created 22 June, 1620, m. Frances, daughter of Sir John Ferrers, Knt. of Tamworth, and by that lady, who m. 2ndly, Alexander Lesley, Earl of Leven, had (with a dau. who m. 1st, Colonel Washington, and 2ndly, Samuel Sandys, Esq. of Ombersley, in the county of Worcester) an only son, JOHN. Sir John resided at Ailesbury, and was elected to parliament by that borough, in the 21st of JAMES I., but d. at the early age of twenty-four, in Oct. 1624, previously to his father, and was s. by his son,

II. SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, who at the decease of his grandfather inherited the estates of the family, and resided subsequently at Westwood. He was then in his fifth year, and under the guardianship of Lord Coventry, the then lord keeper, "by whose vigilant care of his education, both by travel and other advantages, he became a most accomplished gentleman." He was elected one of the knights for Worcestershire, in the 15th CHARLES I., and when the rebellion broke out, was member for Ailesbury; and having on all occasions given proofs both of his fidelity to the crown and the rights of the subject, was entrusted by the king, in 1642, with a commission for arraying men for his service in Worcestershire, on account of which he was taken prisoner, committed to the Tower, and fined £5000: had his estate sequestered, his house in Buckinghamshire (one of the best in that county) levelled with the ground, and such great wastes committed in his woods, that an estimate of the loss, still remaining in the hand-writing of his lady amounts to £20,348. His zeal in the loyal cause never swerved, for notwithstanding he had suffered so much for his loyalty, he had the courage to join King CHARLES II. with a troop of horse, at the battle of Worcester, and was taken prisoner there, yet was so popular, that when afterwards tried for his life, not one witness could be procured to swear against him: he was consequently acquitted and set at liberty, but was afterwards fined £7670, and compelled for the said fine, to convey the market-house, the tolls, the court-leet, and certain grounds called Heydon Hill, parcel of the estate at Ailesbury, to Thomas Scot (who was one of the king's judges), and other trustees, for the use of the town, which they kept until after the Restoration, when, by a special act of parliament, the said conveyances were made void. Sir John m. Dorothy, one of the daus. of his guardian, Thomas, Lord Coventry, and by her, who was the reputed author of The Whole Duty of Man, and other excellent works, had, with two daus. (the eldest m. to Anthony Eyre, Esq. of Rampton, Notts; the younger, to William Godfrey, Esq. of Lincolnshire), an only son, his successor, at his decease, 13 Jan. 1680,

III. SIR JOHN PAKINGTON, M.P. for Worcestershire, temp. King CHARLES II. and King JAMES II., who m. Margaret, dau. of Sir John Keyt, Bart. of Ebrington, in Gloucestershire, and d. in March, 1688, when he was s. by his only child,

IV. SIR JOHN PAKINGTON. This gentleman was a strenuous asserter of the rights and liberties of the country, and in the year 1702, preferred that remarkable complaint to the House of Commons, against William, Lord Bishop of Worcester, and Mr. Lloyd, his son, for interfering in the election of the county of Worcester, by sending threatening letters to the clergy and freeholders, and aspersing his conduct in parliament. Sir John was constantly elected one of the knights for Worcestershire in every parliament, from his first being chosen, at nineteen years of age (except one, when he voluntarily declined it), to his death, notwithstanding the powerful opposition generally made against him. He m. 1st, Frances, eldest dau. of Sir Henry Parker, Bart. of Honington, co. Warwick, by whom he had two sons, John and Thomas, who both d. young and unmarried, and two daus., viz.,

Sir John m. 2ndly, Hester, daughter and sole heir of Sir Herbert Perrott, Knt. of Haroldstone, in the county of Pembroke, and by that lady had a son, HERBERT-PERROTT, his successor. This gentleman, who was the original of Addison's Sir Roger de Coverley, d. 13 Aug. 1727, was interred with his ancestors, at Hampton-Lovet, and s. by his son,

V. SIR HERBERT-PERROTT PAKINGTON, M.P. for the county of Worcester, who m. in 1721, Elizabeth, dau. of John Conyers, Esq. of Walthamstow, in Essex, and had issue,

David de Hampton granted to JOHN DE HANMERE the Fenna Wood, by a deed yet extant, dated Monday next after Feast of All Saints, A.D. 1198 (10th RICHARD I.)

The descendant of this JOHN DE HANMERE, in the female line, marrying, in the reign of King HENRY III., Sir Thomas de Macclesfeld, their son assumed the name of HANMER, from the family and estate of his mother, as appears from a Latin letter of the celebrated antiquary Camden, preserved among the Harleian manuscripts in the British Museum; and from this marriage the male descent of the family of Hanmer is unbroken to the present day. Sir Thomas de Macclesfield was s. by his son,

Lineage.

By an ancient pedigree in the College of Arms, it appears that the family of LUTTELTON, or LYTTELTON, was settled at Frankley, in Worcestershire, about 1235,* when it is recorded that

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON, m. Emma de Frankley, an heiress, lady of the manor of Frankley; but whether he was a stranger in the country, or resided in the town of South Luttelton, in the Vale of Evesham, as there is reason to think he did, is a matter of doubt. They had an only dau., EMMA, who m. 1st, Augerus de Tatlington, of Tredington, in the same co.; and 2ndly, Nicholas Whetanstede. She was a benefactress to the Abbey of Halesowen, in Shropshire, and d. in 1298. Thomas Luttelton, m. 2ndly Asseline, dau. and heir of William Fitz Waryn, Esq. of Upton, one of the justices itinerant, and judge of the Common Pleas, 12 HENRY III., and next year sheriff co. Worcester; by that lady he had three sons, THOMAS, his successor, Edmund, a priest, and John, who d. unm. The eldest son,

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON, resided at his manor of Coulesdon, in Upper Snodsbury, and had lands in Newenton (vulgo Naunton Beauchamp), in the co. of Worcester. In the 9th EDWARD II. he was elected knight of the shire for Worcester. He m. Lucia, dau. of John du Bois, or Atwood of a considerable family at Wolverley, in that county, and was s. by his son,

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON, who m. Julian, dau. of Robert de Somery, and had two sons: John, the younger, was appointed Commissioner of array, with other the chief gentlemen of the county of Worcester, 1 HENRY IV., on a rumour of foreign invasion. He m. Beatrix Freschevel, of a noble family in the county of Warwick, by whom he had an only dau., the wife of Jeffery Frere, Esq. The elder son,

THOMAS DE LUTTELTON† recovered by a writ of right, the manor of Frankley, on failure of issue to his cousin, Thomas de Tatlington. He was esquire of the body to HENRY IV. and HENRY V., and had annual pensions granted him by both kings out of the fee farm rents of Worcester, pro bono et gratuito servicio, as expressed in the grants. He m. Maud, dau. of Richard Quartermain (and heir of a large estate at Ricote and North Weston, in Oxfordshire), by Joan his wife, dau. and heir of Grey of Rotherfield, and had an only dau. and heiress,

Elizabeth, who m. THOMAS WESTCOTE, Esq., but previously to her marriage, insisted that her husband should take the name of LUTTELTON.

He (Thomas) d. about the year 1421. Maud, his wife, surviving him, holding Frankley in dower or jointure, m. 2ndly, John Massey, Esq. His son-in-law,

THOMAS WESTCOTE, alias LUTTELTON, was escheator of Worcestershire, 29 HENRY VI., and d. in that reign, leaving by the heiress of Littleton, who m. 2ndly, Thomas Hewster, Esq. of Lichfield (with four daus., of whom Anne, m. Thomas Porter, Esq. of Barsden, in Warwickshire), four sons, viz.,

THOMAS, his heir.

* Selden was possessed of two grants of lands to the monastery of Evesham, in 7 HENRY II. (1161), to both of which John de Lyttleton was witness. This is the most ancient mention of the name of Lyttleton to be met with; and as the land so given was at Lench, near South Lyttleton, it is probable this John was ancestor to Lyttleton of Frankley.

Edmund, d. unm.

The eldest son and heir,

SIR THOMAS LUTTELTON, or (as with him more invariably spelt) LITTLETON, K.B., became one of the great law luminaries of his country, and is immortalized by one work alone, his celebrated *Treatise on Tenures. In 1454, he was called to the degree of serjeant-at-law, and afterwards appointed steward of the Marshalsea of the king's household; the next year he was constituted king's serjeant, and, 13 May, 1455, rode justice of the assize in the northern circuit. Having shown some inclining to the Lancastrian party during the war of the Roses, Littleton, on the accession of EDWARD IV., sued a general pardon, which was granted to him, and in the 4th year of that prince's reign, he was appointed one of the judges of the court of Common Pleas, when he had a grant of 110 marks out of the Customs of London, Bristol, and Hull; and moreover, 106*s.* 11½*d.* for a robe and furs, and 6*s.* 6*d.* for a summer robe. In the 15th of King EDWARD, he was made a knight of the Bath, with the Prince of Wales, and several persons of the highest distinction. Sir Thomas m. Joan, dau. and co-heir of William Burley, Esq. of Broomscroft Castle, in Shropshire, and relict of Sir Philip Chetwynd, Knt. of Ingestre, in Staffordshire (with whom he acquired large possessions), and had three sons,

This celebrated judge made his last will 22nd August 1481, and died the next day, at his seat at Frankley, in a great and good old age. His widow survived him twenty-four years, and d. 22 March, 1505, nearly fourscore, leaving a great estate, which came by her father and mother§, to her eldest son, Sir William. The 2nd son,

* Which was commented upon by Sir Edward Coke, and called by him "the ornament of the common law," and which is constantly read and referred to by the profession. The celebrity and usefulness of the work have endured to our own time; and notwithstanding the prodigious accession of statutes and reports, the changes in the law, and the accumulation of publications, Littleton, with Coke's commentary, will ever continue a guide to student, advocate, and judge.

† Edward Lyttleton, of Mounslow, in the co. Salop, Keeper of the Great Seal from 1640 to 1645. This learned personage, like his great ancestor, the author of the Tenures, attained fame, honours, and fortune by the profession of the law. In the 10th year of King CHARLES I., Mr. Lyttleton was appointed solicitor-general, when he received the honour of knighthood; in five years afterwards he was made lord chief justice of the Court of Common Pleas, and the next year constituted lord keeper of the great seal, when he was elevated to the peerage, 18 Feb. 1640, as Baron Lyttleton, of Mounslow, in the co. of Salop. At the commencement of the civil wars, when CHARLES retired to the city of York, the lord keeper immediately followed his majesty with the great seal, and continued afterwards in attendance upon him. His lordship m. Anne, dau. of John Lyttleton, Esq. of Frankley, M.P. for the co. of Worcester, by whom he had an only dau. and heiress, Anne, who m. her second cousin, Sir Thomas Lyttleton, Bart. Of Lord Keeper Lyttleton, Banks says:—"His learning was various and useful; his skill in the maxims of government, and of the fundamental statutes and customs of the kingdom, was particular, as was his experience long and observing. His eloquence was powerful and majestic; in fact, such a man was worthy of that honour to which he was advanced, namely, of a peer of the realm." His lordship d. in 1645, when the barony of Lyttleton, of Mounslow, became extinct.

‡ The Speaker Littleton's immediate family was as follows: Adam Littleton, Esq. of Stoke Milburgh, in Shropshire, descendant of a younger son of Thomas Littleton, of Spetchley, was created a baronet, 14 Oct. 1642; he m. Awdrey, dau. and eventual heiress of Thomas Poyntz, Esq. of North Skynden, in Essex, and dying about 1647, left a son, SIR THOMAS LITTLETON, who m. his cousin, Anne, dau. and heiress of Lord Littleton, of Mounslow, the lord keeper, and dying in April, 1681, was succeeded by his son, SIR THOMAS LITTLETON, Speaker of the House of Commons, temp. He was twice severely wounded, once on the 25th Sept., and again on the 19th Nov. 1857. He obtained the Victoria Cross for his conduct at the battle of Cawnpore; and was at the storming of the Imaumbarrah and the capture of the Kaiser Bagh, when Lucknow was finally taken, in March, 1858; and also at the routing of the enemy in Azimghur, in the following April. Underneath is a Latin epitaph, and over one of the knights is the following inscription, in letters of gold:

Reader, 'twas thought enough, upon the Tomb

To write no more, but (Here lies Hannibal);

William, a lieut.-col. in the British service and K.H., who was wounded at the battle of Waterloo, where he acted as aide-de-camp to Baron Alten, and where he "was one of the most chivalrous officers of the service." He fell gloriously at the head of his regiment, the 14th Light Dragoons, in their desperate but successful charge on the Sikh army, at Ramnugger, the 22nd Nov. 1848. He m. Caroline-Elizabeth, dau. of Acton Chaplin, Esq., and by her (who d. 6 May, 1866, at Neilgherry Hills, India) had issue to survive, William-Henry, Bombay Civil Service, d. 1 Nov. 1876; Acton-Chaplin, Madras staff corps; m. 13 Jan. 1877, Ada-Isabella, 2nd surviving dau. of Gen. Sir Anthony-Blaxland Stransham, K.C.B.; Arthur-Elibank, late lieut. 32nd foot; Charles; Caroline, d. 18 Oct. 1868; and Pauline, m. to Capt. Currie.

HENRY, of whom presently.

Thomas, who served in Spain under Sir De Lacy Evans, and d. there of fever, at Vittoria, unm. in 1836.

Charles-Frederick, a lieut.-col. in the British army, and Major-General or Leeva Pacha in the Imperial Ottoman army, with the Order of Medjidie. This gallant officer, who has achieved much military fame, especially as a leader of cavalry, was b. at Ingress Park, 16 Oct. 1803, entered a cornet in the 16th Lancers in 1821, and went with his regiment the next year to India. His career there was long and glorious, being, during a period of more than twenty years, literally engaged in every Indian battle from the capture of Bhurtpore to the victory of Goojerat. He has medals or clasps for each engagement: he has them for Bhurtpore, Ghuznee, Tezeen, Cabul, Moodkee, Ferozeshah, Sobraon, and Goojerat. He was severely wounded at Ferozeshah. He became a lieut.-col. in 1854, when he joined the Irregular Osmanli Cavalry, and served as its brigadier-gen. till the peace with Russia in 1856. Gen. Charles Havelock m. 14 May, 1833, Mary, 2nd dau. of James Wemyss, Esq. of the Bengal Civil Service, and has had issue (with four daus., viz., Mary, m. 1856, to I. Bensley Thornhill, E.I.Co.'s Civil Service, which gentleman was mortally wounded, 26 Sept. 1857, at Lucknow, while rescuing from the enemy Sir H.-M. Havelock, the present bart., who was struck by a shot; Isabella; Emma-Ettrick; and Jane, d. young, 1845) an only son, Charles-Wemyss, b. 16 Feb. 1834, lieut. 12th Bengal Irregular Cavalry, killed 11 April, 1858, in a skirmish with the rebels at Azimghur, while gallantly commanding the only detachment of his regiment which (through his influence) remained faithful to its colours.

The 2nd son,

SIR HENRY HAVELOCK, b. at Bishopwearmouth, co. Durham, 5 April, 1795, one of the most eminent soldiers of his time, was educated at the Charterhouse, and was originally a student of the Middle Temple. He became an officer in the British rifle-brigade in 1815, and went first to India in 1823. He there took an active part in the first Burmese war. He was a captain in 1838; and was at the storming of Ghuznee, and the occupation of Cabul: he was also at the forcing of the Cabul Pass and the battle of Tezeen; and he commanded the right column in the sortie from Jellalabad and final victorious attack on Akbar the 7th April, 1842, for which he was made a major and a C.B. After various other services, he became a lieut.-col. in 1844, and went through the Sikh war, being present at the victories of Moodkee, Ferozeshah, and Sobraon. In the Persian war he was appointed to head the second division, and commanded at the battle of Mohammerah. On his return to Calcutta, he was sent as brigadier-general to relieve Cawnpore and succour Lucknow, then sorely pressed by the mutinous Sepoys. He consequently commenced, on the 7th July, 1857, that memorable march, unparalleled in history, where with only 1,400 British bayonets and eight guns, united to a small native force, and opposed to a countless mass of the enemy, when the slightest reverse would have been fatal, he proceeded victoriously through a country deluged with rain, from the 7th July to the 16th Sept., hurling back the foe in twelve severe engagements. Joined, on the 16th Sept., by Sir James Outram and a few more troops, he stormed Lucknow, and effected his junction with and relief of its garrison. Then pent up in the Residency and its precincts at Lucknow, he and his band, with Spartan courage and more than Spartan success, held out for two months against all the efforts of the enemy until, by the advance of Sir Colin Campbell, on the 17th Nov. 1857, a victorious rescue was achieved. For these great services as the news of them reached home, Havelock was made a major-general, the 29th Sept. 1857; and a K.C.B., the 17th Nov. 1857; and letters patent were directed, the 26th Nov. 1857, to create him a Baronet. The government also was about to grant an annuity of £1,000 for the lives of himself and his son; but the illustrious soldier did not live to obtain the baronetcy or pension. He was attacked with dysentery, brought on by the intense anxiety and fatigue he had undergone, and he died at the Dilkooska, near Lucknow, 24 Nov. 1857, and was interred the next day in the Alum-bagh. Sir Henry Havelock was the author of a History of the Burmese War, and of the War in Affghanistan. He m. 9 Feb. 1829, Hannah Shepherd, dau. of the Rev. Joshua Marshman, D.D., of Serampore, and has had issue,

Sir Henry's widow, Hannah Shepherd, Lady Havelock, was, by Royal Order, dated 18 Jan. 1858, given the same style, title, place, and precedence to which she would have been entitled had her husband survived and been created a Baronet. An Act of Parliament, the 21 VIC. cap. 2, further granted an annuity for her life, of £1,000 to Hannah Shepherd, Lady Havelock, and a like annuity for life of £1,000 to SIR HENRY-MARSHMAN HAVELOCK, the present baronet.

Avis-Blennerhassett-Millicent, b. 4 Sept. 1868.

Lineage.

This line of WYNNE is descended from a cadet of Gwydir, who, in consequence of some family misunderstanding, left Wales in the 16th century, and settled in London. Sir William Segar acknowledged this to be the true descent, by exemplifying to George Wynne (for so he signed his name), the ancestor of Lord Headley's family, the armorial ensigns of the WYNNES of Gwydir.

GEORGE WYNNE (to whom, being draper to Queen ELIZABETH, a patent of arms was granted in 1604) is the first member of the English branch of whom we find any particular mention. He was born about the year 1560, and d. in 1610. He m. Margaret Green, of London, and had,

EDMUND WYNNE, of Thornton Curteis, in Lincolnshire, who was b. in 1583, and d. in 1645. He m. Mary, dau. of Rowland Berkeley, of the city of Worcester, Esq., and sister of Sir Robert Berkeley, Knt., one of the judges of the court of King's Bench, by whom he had,

GEORGE, b. in 1607; of whom presently.
Rowland, an alderman of London, b. in 1609; d. in 1676.
Mark, of Little Warley, Essex, b. in 1611; d. in 1699.
Katherine.
Margaret, m. to Roger Fletcher, citizen of London.
Mary, m. to Thomas Glover, citizen of London.
Joyce, m. to John Ramsden, merchant in Hull.
Anne, m. to John Aynsworth, merchant of London.

The eldest son,

GEORGE WINN, Esq., served the office of high sheriff of the co. of Lincoln, in 1657, and proved himself a steady friend to the monarchy and to his country during the civil contests which cast a cloud over the last days of the unfortunate CHARLES I.; for there is extant in his family a receipt of the date of the very year in which his majesty suffered, signed by a deputed person on behalf of the exiled prince, his son, from which it appears that George Winn contributed, with his brother Rowland, the sum of 2000 guilders (a sum, perhaps, in those days not inconsiderable, and certainly not advanced without serious personal risk), towards the support of what might have been considered a hopeless cause. In the December following the Restoration, the title of Baronet was conferred by CHARLES II. on his faithful subject, as Sir George Winn, of Nostel, in the co. of York. Sir George was m. thrice: 1st, to Rachel, dau. of John Turner, of Ham, Surrey, Esq., by whom he had no issue; 2ndly, to Elizabeth, dau. of Robert Jeffreys, Esq., alderman of London, by whom he had,

I. EDMUND, his successor, b. in 1644, served as high sheriff of Lincolnshire in 1671. Sir Edward was twice married, and by his 2nd wife, Katharine, had issue three sons and three daus., viz., 1 Sir Rowland, his successor; 2 Edmund, of Ackton, in the county of York, Esq., who was bapt. 2 Dec. 1678 (the grandfather of the last Sir Edmund-Mark Winn); and 3 George, a Smyrna merchant, who was bapt. 19 Aug. 1680, and d. unm. in 1708. The daus. were 1 Elizabeth, who m. 1st, Joseph Taylor, of the Inner Temple, Esq.; and 2ndly, Dr. Charles Trimnell, bishop of Winchester; 2 Katharine; and 3 Sarah; who both d. unm. Sir Edmund d. 30 Aug. 1694. His eldest son,

SIR ROWLAND WINN, of Nostel, the 3rd baronet, was b. 1 July, 1675, and m. Letitia, dau. and co-heiress of William Harbord, Esq. (sometime the English ambassador in Turkey), by whom he had issue three sons and four daus., viz., 1 SIR ROWLAND, his successor; 2 Edmund-Harbord, bapt. 8 May, 1709, who was a colonel of the 1st regiment of foot-guards, and d. unm. 25 May, 1763; and 3 Edward, bapt. 2 Nov. 1714, who d. unm. 1730. The daus. were, 1 Katharine, m. to Sir Samuel Barnardiston, of Ketton, in Suffolk, Bart.; 2 Letitia; 3 Anne-Elizabeth; and 4 Mary; all of whom d. unm. Sir Rowland and his wife both died at Bath in Feb. 1721. Their eldest son,

SIR ROWLAND WINN, of Nostel, the 4th baronet, b. in 1706, was high-sheriff of the county of York in 1732, and in the following year joint candidate with Charles Turner, Esq., in a very severe contest for the representation of that county in parliament, but owing to a misunderstanding between their friends Sir Rowland was unsuccessful. He m. in Aug. 1729, Susannah (sister of the 1st wife of Sir Edward Dering, Bart., and dau. and co-heiress of Charles Henshaw, of Eltham, in Kent, Esq., alderman and lord mayor of London, by his wife, Elizabeth, the only child and heiress of Edward Rooper, Esq., of the very ancient family of that name, settled at St. Dunstan's near Canterbury, and afterwards at Eltham aforesaid), by whom he had three sons and six daus., viz., 1 Sir Rowland, his successor; 2 Edward, of Bramham, in the county of York, who was bapt. 1 April, 1740, and d. unm. 13 Sept. 1832; and 3 Charles, bapt. 24 March, 1741, who d. an infant. Lineage.

The original surname of this very ancient family was Tristram, and was exchanged for that of ST. LAWRENCE.

SIR AMORICUS, or AMORY TRISTRAM, the brother-in-law and companion in arms of Sir John de Courcy, in 1177, effected a landing at Howth, defeated the Irish in a battle at the bridge of Ivora, and obtained the lands and barony (by tenure) of Howth, as a reward for his distinguished valour during the conflict. After this successful commencement, Sir Amoricus, with Sir John de Courcy, reduced the whole province of Ulster; but in 1189, when Sir John was removed from the government of Ireland by RICHARD I., Sir Amoricus, who was then in Connaught, being attacked by O'Conor, king of that province, and overwhelmed by numbers, himself and his whole party, consisting of thirty knights and two hundred infantry, perished to a man. The sword with which he fought still hangs in the hall of Howth, where the family has resided since its first arrival in Ireland, a period of six centuries at least. By the sister of Sir John de Courcy, Earl of Ulster, Sir Amorey left three sons, the eldest,

SIR NICHOLAS FITZ AMOREY, 2nd baron, was obliged to content himself with the lands of Howth, and relinquished to religious houses the conquests of his father in Ulster, his son,

ALMERICUS DE ST. LAWRENCE, 3rd baron of Howth, was granted by JOHN, Earl of Morton, and Lord of Ireland, afterwards King JOHN, a charter of confirmation of the lands of Howth, as held by his father, to hold by service of one knight's fee. His son,

Lineage.

This illustrious house, so renowned in the cabinet and the field, derives its surname from the seaport of Hastings, in Sussex (the lastage of which its senior members farmed for many years from the crown), and deduces its pedigree from Robert de Hastings, Portgrave of Hastings, Lord of Fillongley, in Warwickshire, and dispensator, or steward, to WILLIAM THE CONQUEROR. The successor of this Robert was

WALTER DE HASTINGS, who became steward to HENRY I, as owner of the manor of Ashill, co. Norfolk, a grant from the crown, upon the condition of taking care of the naperie (table-linen) at the coronation. From this Walter descended

HENRY, LORD HASTINGS, who m. Ada, 4th dau. of David, Earl of Huntingdon, by Maud, dau. of Hugh, sister and co-heir of Ranulph, Earl of Chester (see BURKE'S Extinct and Dormant Peerage, article MESCHINES, Earls of Chester), and was s. by his only son,

HENRY, LORD HASTINGS, who, adhering to Simon Montfort, Earl of Leicester, against HENRY III, was knighted, and was made governor, by that nobleman, of the castles of Scarborough and Winchester in 1264; and in the following year of Kenilworth Castle. This feudal baron m. Joane, dau. of William, and sister and co-heir of George de Cantilupe, Barons of Bergavenny; and dying in 1268, was s. by his elder son,

JOHN DE HASTINGS, Lord Hastings and Bergavenny, seneschal of Aquitaine, and, in 1290, one of the aspirants to the Scottish throne in right of his grandmother, Ada, who was niece to MALCOLM IV. and WILLIAM THE LION, Kings of Scotland. This nobleman had summons to parliament from 1295 to the time of his death. He m. Isabel, dau. of William, and sister and co-heir of Aylmer de Valence, Earls of Pembroke, by whom he had two sons and three daus.; the second of which daus., Elizabeth, m. Roger, Lord Grey de Ruthyn. His lordship m. 2ndly, Isabel, 5th dau. of Hugh Despenser, Earl of Winchester, and had two sons. He d. 9 March, 1312-13, and was s. by the elder son of the first marriage,

JOHN, LORD HASTINGS, Bergavenny and Weishford, governor of Kenilworth Castle in 1323; who d. in 1325, and was s. by his only son,

LAURENCE, who, upon the decease of his grand-uncle, Aylmer de Valence, Earl of Pembroke, s. p., was created Earl of Pembroke, by patent dated 13 Oct. 1389; a dignity that expired with John, 3rd earl, who was accidentally slain in a tournament by Sir John St. John, at Woodstock. This terminated the elder branch of the noble house of Hastings; but a younger, deriving from

THOMAS DE HASTINGS, great-grandson of Walter de Hastings, steward to HENRY I. and elder son of William de Hastings, by his 2nd wife, Ida, dau. of Henry, Earl of Ewe, laid the foundation of the present Earldom of Huntingdon. From this Thomas lineally descended

SIR WILLIAM DE HASTINGS, Knt., who was nominated by EDWARD IV. master of the Mints at London and Calais, steward of the honour of Leicester, and of the manors and castles of Donnington, Higham Ferrers, and Daventry; and created by the same monarch, 26 July, 1461, Baron Hastings of Ashby-de-la Zouch, when his lordship was installed a knight of the Most Noble Order of the Garter. His lordship m. Catharine, relict of William, Lord Bonvile and Harington, and dau. of Richard Nevil, Earl of Salisbury, by whom he had four sons and two daus. In 1465, we find this nobleman entering into an agreement with Dame Elizabeth Grey, late wife of Sir John Grey, Knt., and heir of Edward Grey, late Lord Ferrers, that he should have the wardship of her son, Thomas, afterwards Marquess of Dorset, on whose part it was stipulated that he should, within five or six years afterwards, marry the eldest dau. of Lord Hastings that might then be living. His lordship about this time undertook, in his capacity of master of the Mint, a new coinage of gold, consisting of pieces of eight shillings and fourpence sterling each, called nobles; other pieces of one-half; and a third, of one-fourth that value. For several years afterwards Lord Hastings was one of the most powerful persons in the kingdom. In 1474, he obtained a license from EDWARD IV. to impark three thousand acres of land and wood in Ashby-de-la-Zouch, and he accordingly built, at Ashby, a magnificent castle for the residence of his family, which it continued to be for two hundred years. This castle was afterwards remarkable as the temporary prison of MARY, Queen of Scots. Of his lordship FULLER says: "The reader needeth not my dim candle to direct him to this illustrious person, whom King EDWARD IV., or rather Edward Plantagenet (because more in human than in his royal capacity), so delighted in that he made him his lord-chamberlain, Baron Hastings of Ashby-de-la-Zouch," &c. Lord Hastings fell a victim, eventually, to the Protector Gloucester (RICHARD III.), and was beheaded in the Tower, 13 June, 1483, when his estates were confiscated, but soon afterwards restored, partly by RICHARD and the remainder by HENRY VII., to his son,

EDWARD, K.B., 2nd baron; who having m. Mary, dau. and sole heir of Thomas, Baron Hungerford, Botreaux, Moulins, and Moels, had been summoned to parliament, 15 Nov. 1482, as Lord Hungerford. By this union his lordship had a dau., Anne, who became the wife of Thomas Stanley, Earl of Derby, and after his decease, of John Radcliffe, Lord Fitz-Walter; and a son, his successor, at his demise, 8 Nov. 1507,

GEORGE, 3rd baron. This nobleman attended HENRY VIII, in 1513, at the taking of Terouenne and Tournay, and was created by that monarch, 3 Nov. 1529, EARL OF HUNTINGDON. His lordship m. Anne, dau. of Henry Stafford, 2nd Duke of Buckingham, and widow of Sir Walter Herbert, Knt.; and dying 21 July, 1544, was s. by his eldest son,

FRANCIS, 2nd Earl, K.G.; who m. Katherine, dau. and co-heir of Henry Pole, Lord Montagu, and granddau. of Margaret, Countess of Salisbury (which Margaret was dau. and sole heir of George Plantagenet, Duke of Clarence, brother of EDWARD IV.). On New Year's day, 1553, we find this nobleman presenting to EDWARD VI., in a purse of red silk, five sovereigns and eight half-sovereigns; and receiving in return a gilt cup and cover, weighing twenty ounces. His lordship d. 20 June, 1561, having had six sons and five daus.; of the youngest dau., the beautiful Lady Mary Hastings, the following circumstance is related: "John Vassilivich, Grand Duke and Emperor of Russia, having a desire to marry an English lady, was told of the Lady Mary Hastings, who being of the blood royal, he began to affect: whereupon making his desires known to Queen ELIZABETH, who did well approve thereof, he sent over Theodore Pissemskoie, a nobleman of great account, his ambassador, who, in the name of his master, offered great advantages to the queen in the event of the marriage. The queen hereupon caused the lady to be attended with divers ladies and young noblemen, that so the ambassador might have a sight of her, which was accomplished in York House Garden, near Charing Cross, London. There was the envoy brought into her presence, and casting down his countenance, fell prostrate before her, then rising, with his face still towards her (the lady with the rest admiring at his strange salutation), he said, by his interpreter, 'it sufficed him to behold the angelic presence of her who, he hoped, would be his master's spouse and empress.'" Lineage.

Although there are numerous histories of this illustrious family extant, yet the historians do not coincide as to its origin and first settlement in Great Britain. The more probable conjecture, however, is, that some of these Gordons came into England with WILLIAM, Duke of Normandy, and into Scotland with King MALCOLM CANMORE. Indeed, there is a tradition in North Britain that the first of the name who crossed the Tweed was a valiant knight, a favourite of MALCOLM'S, who, having killed a wild boar that greatly infested the borders, obtained a grant of lands in the Merse, or Berwickshire, which he called Gordon, after his own surname, and settling there, assumed the boar's head for his armorial bearing, in commemoration of the exploit. Be the early origin, however, what it may the noble family of which we are about to treat deduces its direct maternal descent from

SIR JOHN DE GORDON, Knt., who obtained in the 28th year of DAVID II. a charter, dated 20th March, 1357-8, confirming the donation which ROBERT I. had made to his grandfather, Sir Adam de Gordon, of the lands of Strathbogie, and was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN DE GORDON, who obtained a confirmatory charter of the same lands from ROBERT II., dated 16 June, 1376. In the next year, the Earl of March having attacked and burned the town of Roxburgh, the English borderers retaliated on the lands of Sir John Gordon, who, passing the border, encountered Sir John de Lilburn, and after a desperate affray, defeated him at Carham. Sir John Gordon had also a chief hand in the defeat and capture of Sir Thomas de Musgrave, governor of Berwick, in 1378, after a severe conflict. Sir John fell, eventually, at the battle of Otterburn, in Aug. 1388, leaving a son,

SIR ADAM GORDON, Knt. of Huntley, who was slain in 1402, at the battle of Homildon, and was s. in his estates by his only dau. (by his wife, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William de Keith, great-marischal of Scotland),

ELIZABETH GORDON, who m. Alexander Seton (2nd son of Sir William Seton, of Seton), and obtained, in conjunction with her husband, from Robert Duke of Albany, a charter, dated 20 July, 1408, to their joint heirs, and in default, to the heirs of the said Elizabeth, of the baronies of Gourdoun and Huntle, and thenceforward the said Alexander was styled Lord of Gordon and Huntly. Of this marriage there were two sons and a dau.,

ALEXANDER.
William, ancestor of the SETONS of Meldrum.
Elizabeth, m. to Alexander, Earl of Ross.

The eldest son,

ALEXANDER SETON, Lord of Gordon and Huntly, was created, 1449—50, Earl of Huntly, with limitation to his heirs male by his 3rd wife, Elizabeth, dau. of William, Lord Crichton, chancellor of Scotland, such heirs assuming the surname and bearing the arms of GORDON. His lordship m. thrice; 1st, Jane, dau. of Robert, son and heir of William, 1st Earl Marischal, by whom he acquired a great estate, but had no issue; 2ndly, Egidia, dau. and heir of Sir John Hay, of Tullibody, by whom he had a son, Sir Alexander Seton, who s. to his mother's estates, and was progenitor of the SETONS of Touch. Lord Huntly m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of William, 1st Earl of Erroll, and relict of Patrick, master of Gray, and dying in 1470, was s. by his eldest son,

The earl m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Andrew, Lord Gray, and relict of John, 6th Lord Glamis. He d. in 1523, and was s. by his grandson,

GEORGE, 4th earl, who was constituted lord-chancellor of Scotland, and had the great seal delivered to him, 10 June, 1546. His lordship took an active part in the political affairs of his country during the reign of King JAMES V., the regency of that monarch's dowager, and the reign of the unfortunate MARY, his daughter; and having taken up arms in the feuds which then agitated Scotland, he was defeated by his rival, the Earl of Moray, at Corrichie, near Aberdeen. The consequences of the loss of this battle were most disastrous to the family of Huntly. The earl himself, thrown from his horse and too unwieldy to rise from the ground, was smothered in the retreat, 28 Oct. 1562; and his body, brought to town on a pair of panniers, was afterwards produced in parliament, when a doom of forfeiture was pronounced against him and his family, which was not reversed until 19 April, 1567. His son, Sir John Gordon, condemned to be beheaded, was butchered at Aberdeen by an unskilful executioner. The earl was s. by his eldest surviving son (by Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Robert, Lord Keith, and sister of William, 4th Earl Marischal),

GEORGE, 5th earl. This nobleman, after the unhappy death of his father, was tried for high treason in 1563, sentenced to be hanged, drawn, and quartered. He was, however, pardoned by the Queen, and appointed lord-chancellor of Scotland in 1565. His lordship m. Lady Anne Hamilton, dau. of James, Earl of Arran, Duke of Chatelherault, Regent of Scotland; and dying in May, 1576, was s. by his only son,

GEORGE, 6th earl, who was created, 17 April, 1599, MARQUESS OF HUNTLY, and acquired also, between 1608 and 1625, the dignities of Baron of Badenoch, Lochaber, Strathavon, Auchindoun, Balmore, Garthie, and Kincardine, Viscount Inverness, and Earl of Enzie. His lordship m. Lady Henrietta Stewart, eldest dau. of Esme, Duke of Lennox, by whom he had issue,

I. GEORGE, 2nd marquess.

The Marquess of Huntly was heard to say, that he never drew a sword in his own quarrel. "In his youth, a prodigal spender; in his old age more wise and worldly; yet never counted for cost in matters of credit and honour; a great householder; a terror to his enemies, whom he ever, with his prideful ken, held under subjection and obedience; just in all his bargains, and never heard for his true debt; he was mightily envied by the kirk for his religion, and by others for his greatness, and thereby had much trouble." His master, King JAMES, loved him dearly, and he was a good and loyal subject to that prince. He d. 16 June, 1636, and was s. by his eldest son,

In 1711, her grace excited no small attention by sending to the dean and faculty of advocates a silver medal, with the head of the Chevalier on one side, and on the other, the British isles, with the word Reddite. The dean having presented the medal to the faculty at their next meeting, a debate ensued about the propriety of admitting it into their repositories, when the affirmative was carried, and a vote passed, to return thanks to the duchess for her present. Two advocates, delegated for that purpose, waited upon her grace, and expressed their hopes that she would soon have an opportunity to compliment the faculty with a second medal on the Restoration. The duke was bred up in the Catholic religion, which his family always professed.
